'VULNERABLE GROUPS NEED BOOSTER DOSE'

WHO Europe, based in Copenhagen, also cited the growing evidence of a decline in protection against infection through vaccines. It said a 'booster dose' should be given as a priority to the most vulnerable populations. 26 new legislative proposals and 3 old ones lined up for the upcoming winter session of Lok Sabha

Bill to amend ST list in UP before polls

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

THE BJP's social engineering for the upcoming Uttar Pradesh elections appears to be taking shape, with the government listing a legislative proposal to amend the list of Scheduled Tribes (STs) for the poll-bound state in the upcoming winter session of Parliament. A similar bill to amend the list of STs in Tripura, where the BJP is facing heat from the Trinamool Congress, is part of the proposed legislative business.

In all, 26 new bills and three others that had already been introduced, have been lined up for the forthcoming session. The bulletin released by the Lok Sabha on Tuesday also listed a bill to repeal the three contentious farm laws that were enacted by Parliament last year.

While Parliament had earlier this year amended the list of SCs in Tamil Nadu following a recommendation from the state government, a senior minister in the UP Cabinet said the state administration hasn't yet forwarded any such proposal. He, however, added that Parliament on its own can amend the list of STs in the state to address long pending demands of certain communities.

As for Tamil Nadu, Parliament had classified certain castes in the SC category ahead of the Assembly elections in the state.

While Sonabhadra and its adjoining districts of UP have tribal concentrations, there has been a growing demand for the inclusion of fisherfolk in the state in the list of STs. The fishermen community is electorally influential.

"The Constitution (Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes) Order (Amendment) Bill, 2021" seeks to amend the list of STs pertaining to UP. A parallel one for Tripura has been listed in the agenda of the official business for introduction, consideration and passing in the Lok Sabha.

The BJP's poll mantra in UP, incidentally, for the 2014 and 2019 Lok Sabha elections and the 2017 Assembly polls had been the consolidation of the non-Yadav other backward classes (OBCs), with focus on the most and extremely backward castes, which were previously supporting the BSP.

With the rival Samajwadi Party making attempts to stitch a larger pre-poll alliance with smaller parties that have distinct caste identities, the BJP is trying hard to play catch-up, knowing full well that multiple caste groups in UP have the numbers to change the electoral outcome.

Legal axe to fall on most private cryptocurrencies

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

THE Centre plans to bring a bill in the forthcoming winter session of Parliament to prohibit all private cryptocurrencies in the country but with certain exceptions.

According to the Parliamentary bulletin detailing the legislative business for the Lok Sabha, the Cryptocurrency and Regulation of Official Digital Currency Bill, 2021 seeks to "create a facilitative framework for creation of the official digital currency to be issued by the Reserve Bank of India".

While the bill seeks to prohibit all private cryptocurrencies in the country, "it allows for certain exceptions to promote the underlying technology of cryptocurrency and its uses". Notably, the bill does not use the word 'ban'. According to sources, a 3-6 month exit period could be offered before preventing the trading, mining and issuing of cryptos so that existing investors have the opportunity to exit after declaring their investment for the purpose of taxation.

The Centre had planned to introduce the Cryptocurrency and Regulation of Official Digital Currency Bill, 2021 in Parliament in the past two sessions, but dropped it due to strong opposition from the Reserve Bank of India, investigative agencies and the Vishwa Hindu Parishad, which sought a complete ban on cryptos alleging such digital money is used to fund terrorism etc.

Currently, there is no regulation or ban on the use of cryptocurrencies in the country. Earlier this month, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had held a meeting on cryptocurrencies with senior officials, dropping hints that strong regulatory steps would be taken to deal with the issue.

PM assesses rain situation in state, assures CM of help

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday took stock of the situation in Karnataka, including Bengaluru, after heavy rain lashed the state over the last few days. He assured the state government of all assistance.

"Prime Minister Narendra Modi today (Tuesday) called Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to take stock of the situation due to heavy rain and floods in Karnataka. The chief minister explained the extent of loss of human lives, damage to crops and public property to the PM," the CM's Office stated.

The PM expressed his deep concern over the crop loss and loss of lives and assured the state of all necessary cooperation and assistance, the Chief Minister's Office stated.

Bommai on Tuesday visited several areas in Bengaluru that were flooded due to heavy rain. On Monday, he was in Kolar and Bengaluru Rural districts to get first-hand information about the damage caused to standing crops.

It is estimated that across the state, crops in over 5 lakh hectares of land have been damaged. The government has directed officials to immediately start the survey work to assess the damage and provide compensation without delay.

Another statement by the Chief Minister's Office said Union Home Minister Amit Shah too spoke to Bommai over phone to get information on the flood situation and relief works.

INDIA, US TO OPEN UP STRATEGIC RESERVES TO BRING DOWN OIL PRICE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN a coordinated move led by the US, India will release about 5 million barrels of crude oil from its emergency stockpile to bring down the oil prices in the global market. According to sources, the stocks will be released over the next 7-10 days. "We are working on releasing stocks from our strategic reserves in coordination with other nations," said an official in the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas.

A White House release earlier in the day said the US would release 50 million barrels of oil from its strategic reserve to bring down energy costs, in coordination with India, China, Japan, South Korea and the UK. The US Department of Energy will release the reserve in two ways — 32 million barrels in the next few months and 18 barrels as part of a sale of oil that Congress had previously authorised, the White House said.

Oil prices registered an all-time high in 2021, and according to US investment bank Goldman Sachs, it may hit $90 per barrel by the end of this year. India is the world's third-largest oil consumer and importing nation. It has a store of 5.33 million tonnes or about 38 million barrels of crude oil in underground caverns at three locations on the east and west coasts.

It includes 1.33 million tonnes of storage at Visakhapatnam in Andhra Pradesh, 1.5 million tonnes at Mangaluru and 2.5 million tonnes at Padur (both in Karnataka). The stock, as per reports, will be sold to refineries of Mangalore Refinery and Petrochemicals and Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd, which are connected by pipeline to the strategic reserves.

BASE varsity campus to be spruced up for Modi visit

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

PREPARATIONS are under way to give Dr BR Ambedkar School of Economics University, Bengaluru (BASE University) a grand look to welcome Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is to inaugurate the institution on December 6. The exterior is being spruced up, and the interiors and infrastructure is also being upgraded, with less than two weeks to go. Funds are pending for the interiors, which look incomplete.

Discussions are on to rope in the horticulture department to improve the campus. Minister for Housing and Infrastructure Development V Somanna and Minister for Higher Education Ashwath Narayan visited the campus on Tuesday evening and met university and higher education department officials to discuss preparations for Modi's visit. Both ministers believed that a lot needed to be done for the institute.

While releasing Rs 150 crore to BASE for civil works, Somanna pulled up the contractor for shabby work and ordered that work be started 24/7, and gave him a week's time to spruce up the campus. The university has a strength of 240 students, and just 50 students are on campus, as per the vice-chancellor who spoke at the meeting.

Meanwhile, the infrastructure -- be it the interiors or faculty quarters – is yet to be completed and remains a challenge for the institute, that claims to be modelled on the lines of London School of Economics.

Ashwath Narayan sought to know from university officials what needs to be done by the government. Emergency funds are planned for landscaping too. The building is scheduled to be inaugurated four years after the academic session of BASE was inaugurated at Dr BR Ambedkar Bhavan by former Prime Minister Dr Manmohan Singh, on October 4, 2017.

COMPENSATION FOR DAMAGED HOUSES

Bommai announced that compensation of Rs 10,000 will be given to those whose homes were flooded, and Rs 1 lakh for damaged houses. About 400 houses were affected in Yelahanka area, and 10km of main roads and 20km of interior roads were also damaged. While 600 homes were damaged in Byatarayanapura, 45 km of roads were damaged.

DIGGING UP ROADS

The BBMP administrator and chief commissioner held a series of meetings with officials and issued orders to Bescom and BWSSB to take permission from BBMP before digging roads. They were also directed to clear all silt and garbage from drains, and ensure there is no flooding in the upper catchment of Kalkere lake in KR Puram. He said work on potholes will start once the rain stops.

CM tours flood-hit areas, wants encroachments on drains cleared

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday directed BBMP officials to clear encroachments on buffer zones of lakes and drains, besides widening drains and creating a drain master plan. Bommai was on a tour of flood-affected areas of North Bengaluru, Yelahanka zone, including Kendriya Vihar Apartments (KVA), Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research (JNCASR) and Manyata Tech Park. He drove around in an SUV and interacted with citizens to seek their opinions on what is needed for the city's improvement.

He studied survey maps to ascertain the cause of the floods, and ordered that encroachments on rajakaluves be cleared immediately. "Notices will be issued to all buildings on storm water drains and a clearance drive will start. They will be given time for eviction," he said.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai meets Prof CNR Rao at the Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research in Bengaluru on Tuesday | EXPRESS

Bommai interacted with Prof CNR Rao at JNCASR, and inspected the laboratory and library where rain water had gushed in, damaging research material. He said that all support will be given to ensure that research is not affected, and directed BBMP engineers to work with the institute's administration to create diversion channels. Inspecting flood-hit Manyata Tech Park, Bommai directed the administration to ensure that water flow in the channel passing through the drain is not affected. An assessment of survey maps showed a problem with the retaining wall, and he directed BBMP to work with the Manyata administration.

He later said the BBMP will start clearing encroachments soon. "Directions have been issued to create a master plan to widen and improve the rajakaluve from the existing 8ft to 30-33ft from Yelahanka Lake to Jakkur, to Rachenahalli, KR Puram and Dakshina Pinakini river in Tamil Nadu," he said.

He listed out the reasons for severe flooding as unprecedented rain (138mm in two hours), encroachments, lakes being full of rainwater and narrow drains unable to carry water flow. Directions were also issued to acquire land under TDR. "Since the affected area is along the highway, I will talk to NHAI to connect the drain underground," he said.

Varthur Lake frothing again as govt looks away

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE Varthur Lake, and its inlet and outlet channels, have started frothing again. Citizens blame the lackadaisical attitude of the government and civic agencies in completing restoration work within the stipulated time. Citizens and former members of the National Green Tribunal (NGT)-constituted committee said sewage treatment plants were to be constructed by March 2021, but are still not completed.

Former NGT committee members also pointed out that the chief secretary-headed committee, which was to be formed after the term of the NGT-constituted committee ended in March 2020, was not done, let alone hold meetings with citizens.

A citizen committee member told TNIE, "The STPs were to be completed in September 2020, but the government sought an extension from the NGT, and gave a commitment of March 2021, but even then was not done. Now, untreated sewage and polluted water continue to flow into the lake. Frothing is an indication of bad water quality."

Citizens residing around the lake, who were acting as its custodians, said pictures of untreated water, plastic and garbage flowing in the water body were shared with government officials, but to no avail.

Desilting of Bellandur and Varthur lakes has also come to a near-halt. The target was to clean the two water bodies by 2022, but so far, only 30,000 truckloads of silt have been cleared, and the lakes are filled with rainwater and untreated sewage water.

Of the 110 villages added to BBMP limits, 36 are in Mahadevapura zone, which are yet to get proper sewage and water lines; 14 STPs were to be set up in KC, Hebbal and Nagawara valleys. A former NGT-constituted committee member said no work was done by the committee. Additional Chief Secretary, Urban Development Department, Rakesh Singh said work had slowed down because of the rain and pandemic.

METRO PARKING CONTRACTOR ROBBED AT KNIFEPOINT

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

IN a shocking incident that occurred recently, a man wearing a helmet robbed a Metro contractor of Rs 16,000 at knife point, at the parking lot of Swami Vivekananda Road Metro station. An FIR has been filed in this connection at the Indira Nagar police station.

The incident has just come to light after the extended train operations by BMRCL since last Thursday. Employees of contractor, Peacock Allied Services, close the parking lot on the Old Madras Road before the last Metro train arrives here at 11.30 pm, and then lock the gate too from inside. Those who come by the last train need to walk or take an auto or cab to reach home.

Asked about the early closure, an employee explained, "We are worried for our life and safety after an incident that took place ten days ago. An individual, who appeared to be a drug addict, told us that his vehicle was parked here and went to the extreme end of the station. He suddenly approached us brandishing a knife and forced us to pay all the parking money of Rs 13,000 we had with us. He made me empty my pocket of personal cash worth nearly Rs 3,000 too. There is no lighting here and this is a dangerous place at nights," he explained.

The incident was conveyed to Metro officials the following day and an FIR has been registered at Indira Nagar police station, said another employee.

It is also learnt that top officials of BMRCL visited the parking lot a couple of days ago. The area was fully cleared of weeds and other waste material. Steps to light up the parking lot are in the offing.

PETER VIDAL

24th November : I did another radio interview recently all about Nostradamus. If you have heard about this great sixteenth century prophet but don't know much about him, then let me tell you that a great deal of nonsense is spoken about him. He was a fascinating man in his time but he didn't predict World War 3 - so we can all sleep easy!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The moment has come to lead other people a merry dance by taking off and making fame and fortune your ultimate goal. Just to follow another tack for a change, your creative powers are as strong as ever, and you may look to your own individual skills and talents.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
It doesn't matter whether your current problems are intensely personal - or strictly public and professional. All that matters is that you adopt an open-hearted approach and welcome other people into your confidence. You'll be unhappy with any actions which require deception, however small.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Fortunately consultation with others comes naturally to you, but if I may make a gentle observation, you are not always that good at listening to other people's responses. Today you must take all advice to heart, even if it feels as if you've heard it all before.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
It's said that you can't jump in the same river twice. This ancient riddle is an astrological truth which makes enormous sense at the moment: the same conditions will never return, so you must plan for the future, not live in the past. In other words, life is not a rehearsal!

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It may be in your best interests to wait a while longer before taking too much on trust or finalising personal arrangements. Also, you should now accord partners more respect than has sometimes been the case. It's the least that they deserve, but it will also reflect well on you.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
It is not like you to do things on the spur of the moment, but you are now entering a period of maximum impatience in your relationships and at work. Be sure that if you disturb a professional partnership, the results are as desired. Remember the old saying: act in haste, repent at leisure!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
If you have raised your sights to the higher questions, those involving ethics and morality, even schemes which recently appeared to be fraught with obstacles could become a great deal easier. You should take some of the credit, but so should someone who has given you good, if uncomfortable, advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Mercury, planet of deep thought, is now intriguingly aligned with your sign. You must now therefore develop original ideas. More than that, you may benefit from the absolute determination to reject anything that no longer suits your mood.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You're a complex person, but then you don't need me to tell you that. If you wish, you may continue the rules and habits of a lifetime and maintain a sense of imaginative chaos at home. If anyone tries to make you follow their ideas, just smile sweetly and ignore them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Strong financial indications continue but with a distinctly problematic set of circumstances. Either you'll make an enormous profit or you'll be ripped off - there is no middle way. However, play your cards with great care and you'll undoubtedly pick up a nice bargain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
If you have your wits about you at present, you can soon finally agree a deal or transaction which has been uppermost in your mind for a very long time. You may, though, have to fill in the details at a later date. Next week should do it, so make your plans immediately.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You must now be prepared to take snap decisions, much as this may go against the grain. If you're in need of expert advice or assistance you may wait until tomorrow. Also, happy to say, hard effort is likely to bring the desired monetary remuneration.

No RT-PCR for short-term Maharashtra travellers

Covid-negative certificate must for those returning from Kerala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

A man gives samples for RT-PCR test at a clinic in Bengaluru | EXPRESS

THE Karnataka government, in a fresh circular, has relaxed guidelines for travellers who stay for a couple of days in Maharashtra and return to their hometowns in Karnataka. There will be no relaxation, though, for travellers from Kerala, who will have to submit RT-PCR negative certificates while entering the state.

There have been several requests to the Karnataka government to ease Covid-19 regulations and exempt RT-PCR tests for people returning to Karnataka from Maharashtra.

Experts from the Technical Advisory Committee (TAC), at a recent meeting, analysed the Covid-19 case patterns in the states, compared them to Karnataka and decided to waive RT-PCR tests for those on short trips to Maharashtra. The RT-PCR negative report, though, is necessary for those returning after prolonged stay in Maharashtra.

According to the GO from the health department, a person should be fully vaccinated, and 14 days should have passed after the second dose, and stay in Maharashtra should be for only two days, to be exempted.

"It is also important that they have no Covid-19 symptoms like fever, cold, cough, throat pain, difficulty in breathing, etc," the order said.

Meanwhile, they also have to self-monitor their health for seven days on return, and get tested immediately if any Covid-19 symptoms develop.

However, experts from TAC said there were also requests for exemption of RT-PCR negative reports for doubly vaccinated farmers and students arriving from Kerala to Karnataka. But TAC, after comparing the recent data between Kerala and Karnataka, found that test positivity rate in Kerala is above 8 per cent, while in Karnataka it is 0.86 per cent, and recommended that till "Kerala's TPR reaches 2% or less, it would not be safe to exempt them from RT-PCR reports, failing which the gains made so far by Karnataka may be negated."

'Fat bills, violence, bias scarred patients during pandemic'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

COVID-19 patients had to endure various indignities, including denial of essential healthcare services, being forced to pay inflated bills in private hospitals, and refused admission for emergency services without a Covid-19 test, found two rapid surveys by Oxfam India during the pandemic in the country.

Additionally, marginalised communities like Dalits, Adivasis and religious minorities like Muslims faced new forms of violence, and discrimination in both public and private hospitals. While the Covid-19 vaccine is seen as a solution to the pandemic, its rollout has also been rife with inequalities, said the report titled 'Securing Rights of Patients in India'.

"Over a third of women (35 per cent) said they had to undergo physical examination by a male practitioner, without another female present in the room. Studies have shown that women were more likely to go for gynaecological examinations when norms and standards related to privacy are maintained," the survey stated.

A third of Muslim respondents and over 20 per cent of Dalit and Adivasi respondents reported feeling discriminated against on grounds of their religion or caste in hospital by healthcare professionals.

Oxfam stated that failure to provide detailed cost of treatment was fairly uniform across the board for rural (58%) and urban (59%) areas, and irrespective of family income, although the rates were somewhat higher for those who were poorer, and more.

CHALLENGES IN VAX DISTRIBUTION

Challenges faced in Covid-19 vaccination were fairly similar, irrespective of the socio-economic profile of respondents, or site of vaccination. These included the need to make multiple visits to vaccination centres, economic consequences of doing so (either loss of wages or high cost of vaccination) and the need to travel long distances to obtain the vaccine, Oxfam said.

- 29% said they had to make multiple visits to vaccination centre or stand in long queues
- 22% faced issues in booking slots online, or had to try for multiple days to get a slot
- 9% said they had to lose a day's wages to get vaccinated
- 43% could not get jab because vaccination centre had run out of doses when they reached
- 12% did not get vaccinated because they could not afford high price of vaccine

STARK COVID ANOMALIES

22% ST, 21% SC patients said they were discriminated against by healthcare providers or in hospitals due to tribal identity/caste

15% of OBC patients said they felt discriminated against because of caste

58% of those hospitalised, or had relatives hospitalised, said they were not provided with estimated cost of treatment or procedure before starting

31% denied case papers, other documents even after requests

TWO OFFICIALS AT CMO TEST COVID-POSITIVE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TWO officials at the Chief Minister's Office (CMO) tested positive for Covid on Monday. While the CMO was sanitised and other staff took Covid tests, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's meetings were shifted to his official residence on Race Course Road.

Around 50 staffers, including police personnel, work at "Krishna", while another 50 are employed at the Chief Minister's Office at Vidhana Soudha. CMO sources said the two staffers who tested positive work at Krishna on Kumara Krupa Road. "But one of them keeps visiting the CMO at Vidhana Soudha for official work. There are chances of him carrying the infection to Vidhana Soudha. Fortunately, offices were shut on Sunday and Monday (Kanakadasa Jayanthi)," sources said.

On Tuesday, all the meetings scheduled at Krishna were shifted to the CM's official residence on Race Course Road. Bommai and all the staff were tested, and the results returned negative. Krishna premises were sanitised, but not the CMO at Soudha. Sources said that they have approached DPAR, requesting sanitisation. "As our office works 24x7, we cannot shut. We may take a break of two hours and work again," they added.

wCovid cases have been declining in Karnataka over the last few weeks. On Monday, the number of active cases stood at less than 7,000. While the recovery rate is high, the mortality rate is less. "An official who is positive at Krishna had tested negative twice last week. Most of the officials at Krishna are negative.," the sources added.

Agri panel pitches for hike in crop loss relief

In report presented to CM, Karnataka Agriculture Price Commission also calls for strengthening APMCs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Agriculture Price Commission on Tuesday asked the State Government to recommend to the Centre for an increase in crop loss compensation under the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF) and also take measures to strengthen the Agriculture Produce Marketing Committees (APMCs) that saw a drastic decline in trading in the last year.

In its report, the Commission stated that Rs 6,800, Rs 13,500 and Rs 18,000 per hectare for rainfed, irrigated and horticulture crops, respectively, is not adequate. The commission felt that a recommendation should be sent to the Centre to increase it to Rs 50,000 per hectare for agri/cash crops and Rs 1 lakh per hectare for multi-year crops.

It also expressed concern over the decline in the number of farmers opting for crop insurance. Registrations declined from 21 lakh in 2016-17 to 15 lakh in 2020-21, the report stated and suggested that crop insurance should be made mandatory by changing the guidelines to make it more farmer-friendly.

After receiving the report from Karnataka Agriculture Price Commission chairman Hanumanagouda Belagurki on Tuesday, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said suitable action will be taken in the interest of the farmers.

The report also suggested the need to strengthen APMCs as trading dropped significantly in the last year after their jurisdiction was restricted to their premises and private firms were allowed to directly procure from farmers.

The Agri commission has asked the state to take measures to strengthen APMCs

In 2020-21, only 74.14 lakh tons of agricultural produce, which accounts for just 21 per cent of the state's production, was traded at the APMCs. The report stated that of the 74.14 lakh tons, only 13 lakh tons were sold at prices higher than the Minimum Support Price. The market cess collection dropped from Rs 618 crore in 2019-20 to Rs 294 crore in 2020-21 and the APMCs are in financial crisis, it stated.

For procurement and supply of horticultural crops, the Commission recommended that the government establish the Karnataka Horticulture Marketing Federation on the lines of Karnataka Milk Federation (KMF). Belagurki told TNIE that such a system will help protect farmers and consumers. Consumers are paying higher prices, but farmers are getting only a fraction of it, he said.

The Commission conducted a survey on the cost of cultivation, covering 2000 farmers across the state. It found that the MSP is not 50 per cent over and above the cost of cultivation as claimed by the Centre, but is varying. In some crops, it is much less. The report also highlighted measures to improve the income of farmers, adoption of integrated farming and water conservation.

JDS STRUGGLES TO HOLD OUT, PROTECT OLD MYSURU TURF

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Tumakuru

THE Janata Dal (Secular) which faced a debacle in the Hanagal and Sindagi bypolls, is attempting to redeem its image of loser in the December 10 Council polls, by fielding its candidates in only seven seats in Old Mysuru region, where it has a base.

In fact, it planned to contest the Bidar, Vijayapura and Kalaburagi seats, but the bypoll candidates losing their deposits proved a setback, and the leaders are now looking at keeping the party base intact.

From trying to foray into North Karnataka to restricting itself to its south turf, the party appears to have learnt from its mistakes. Yet, retaining its four MLC seats in Mandya, Tumakuru, Kolar and Mysuru is not easy, as there is trouble brewing. In Mandya, incumbent MLC N Appaji Gowda was reluctant to contest again but was convinced later, BEML Kantharaju and Manohar have exited to find their future in the Congress, and Sandesh Nagaraj was denied a ticket as he dallied with the BJP and allegedly betrayed the JDS.

In Mandya, although Congress candidate Dinesh Gooligowda is a novice, he has the backing of both KPCC president D K Shivakumar and BJP minister S T Somashekar, as he has worked with both of them. The JDS has found replacements for those who quit the party but only the results will ascertain what weight they carry.

JDS LIST

Mysuru: C N Manje Gowda
Mandya: Appaji Gowda
Hassan: Dr Suraj Revanna
Tumakuru: Anil Kumar R
Kolar: Vakkaleri Ramu
Kodagu: H U Isac Khan
Bengaluru Rural: H M Ramesh Gowda

The newbies being fielded are Anil Kumar R from Tumakuru, Vakkaleri Ramu from Kolar and C N Manche Gowda from Mysuru.

This is also why JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda's grandson Dr Suraj Revanna has been fielded, so as to give the party a chance. In Bengaluru Rural, a win for JDS' Ramesh Gowda is going to be a daunting task as D K Shivakumar's nephew S Ravi, the incumbent MLC, is contesting again. In Kodagu, the JDS has fielded Isac Khan, a novice.

Winning the Hassan, Mandya and Tumakuru seats is crucial for the party, so former KAS officer Anil Kumar R, from the ST Nayaka community, was fielded after his resignation was pushed through. Congress leader K N Rajanna's son Rajendra, also an ST Nayaka, is the rival candidate and the JDS is likely to make all-out efforts to defeat him.

121 candidates in fray for Dec 10 Council polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AS many as 121 candidates filed their nomination papers on the last day on Tuesday, for the Legislative Council polls for 25 seats which will be held on December 10. According to the state Chief Electoral Officer, a total of 215 sets of nominations were filed by 119 male and two female candidates.

Members from local bodies — town and gram panchayats, municipalities and city corporations -- will elect candidates. The BJP has already started its campaign by launching the Jan Swaraj Yathra and party leaders have been holding conventions at all districts since last week.

The BJP has fielded 57 candidates, the Congress 56 and the JDS 17. Apart from them, there are 68 independent candidates as well as from the Aam Aadmi Party, JDU, Karnataka Rashtra Samithi, Social Democratic Party of India and other minor parties.

Many of the candidates are related to MLAs and ministers. In Dharwad, KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed is contesting against Pradeep Shettar, brother of former chief minister Jagadish Shettar. Ahmed played a major role in the recent Hanagal bypoll where Congress candidate Srinivas Mane won in Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's home district Haveri. Mane was an MLC earlier.

The BJP's Chief Whip Mahantesh Kavatagimutt is contesting against Congress MLA Lakshmi Hebbalkar's brother Channaraj Hattiholi from Belagavi.

The Upper House has a strength of 75 members. At present, the BJP has 32 members, Congress 29 and JDS 12 with one Independent. After the death of JDS MLC Dharmegowda last year, the seat fell vacant.

The elections are being held for two seats each from the local body constituencies of Vijayapura, Belagavi, Dharwad, Dakshina Kannada and Mysuru, and one each from Bidar, Kalaburagi, Uttara Kannada, Raichur, Ballari, Chitradurga, Shivamogga, Chikkamagalur, Hassan, Tumakuru, Mandya, Bengaluru, Bengaluru Rural, Kolar and Kodagu.

We will focus on Assembly election: HDK

MYSURU: Reiterating that JDS is focusing on 'Mission 123' for the upcoming Assembly election, former chief minister and party leader H D Kumaraswamy on Tuesday said they decided to field only seven members for the council polls as per the suggestion of party leaders and workers. He said that as it was a short period, they had to go by seven members only and categorically accepted that he must tour the state in support of the candidates, referring to a comment by minister K S Eshwarappa.

It's battle of prestige for Belagavi's Big 2 families

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

ONE-time friends and now rivals, the Jarkiholis and the Laxmi Hebbalkar camp, will cross swords in the upcoming MLC election from Belagavi local bodies constituency with Lakhan Jarkiholi filing his nomination papers as an Independent candidate on Tuesday. The Congress has named Channaraj Hattiholi, brother of Laxmi Hebbalkar, as its candidate while the BJP has fielded sitting MLC Mahantesh Kavatagimath.

More than half of the electorate are women (4,628 out of 8,875) and the candidates will be looking to grab a major share of their votes. While there are already reports that household appliances like LPG stoves and iron boxes are already being handed out, there is talk that as the campaign picks up pace, cash and gold may also figure in the list of goodies.

Rivalry between Jarkiholis and Hebbalkar began a few years ago with the election of the Belagavi PLD Bank board of directors. Sources close to the Jarkiholis said all four brothers, irrespective of their political affiliation, have joined hands to ensure the defeat of Hebbalkar's brother.

Lakhan Jarkiholi files his nomination papers in Belagavi

Speaking to TNIE, Lakhan Jarkiholi claimed that his entry into the fray as an Independent will bolster the chances of the BJP also. He said he never demanded a BJP ticket but decided to contest as an Independent long ago.

CANDIDATE CHOICE BY CONG UPSETS WORKERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DESPITE a strong regional sentiment among people of Kodagu, Congress has given the MLC ticket from the district to Manthar Gowda, who is from the neighbouring Hassan district.

There has been much resentment with the move among the local people, while many within the party too criticised the decision. Taking advantage of the situation, BJP MLA Madikeri Appachu Ranjan chided Congress, saying the party had to import a candidate from another district as it could not pick a local leader.

Sources said that Congress in Kodagu has around 350-plus votes as compared to BJP's 850-plus and faces a definite defeat. The choice of Manthar Gowda will only make it worse for the party, they added.

Not just in Kodagu, the choice of candidates for the MLC polls has caused resentment in other places too. The party's decision to field Channaraja Basavaraja Hattiholi, who is the brother of MLA Lakshmi Hebbalkar, from Belagavai has upset local party workers. They ask as to why Hebbalkar's family should be allowed to grab more posts, when she is already an MLA. There should be an equitable distribution of power among all sections of party workers, they argued.

The party unit in Mandya too is miffed with the candidature of Gooli Gowda, who is being seen as an outsider. They pointed out that there are dozens of local leaders who could have been given the ticket. Gooli Gowda, who served with minister ST Somashekar, is considered a backdoor entrant. In Chitradurga, there is disenchantment over the candidature of B Somashekar, who too is considered not from the district.

BJP leader stripped of party role in Mandya district

HASSAN: In a surprise move, the state BJP disciplinary committee on Tuesday removed former minister and BJP leader A Manju from the post of Mandya unit in-charge of the party. In a letter to Manju, committee president Lingaraj Patil stated that the party has divested him of all responsibilities. The party took this decision as it considered the recent developments as suspicious, the letter added. Manju's son Dr Mantar Gowda is the Congress candidate for the MLC polls from Kodagu local body constituency. Speaking to the reporters after accompanying BJP MLC candidate H M Vishwanath, who filed the nomination papers in Hassan on Tuesday, Manju said, "I have not campaigned for my son as I am loyal to the BJP." Manju was not available for comment over the letter.

BSY will rebuild KJP, claims Cong leader

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Shivamogga

WILL former Chief Minister and Lingayat strongman B S Yediyurappa enact a repeat of the 2012 political episode? That's what the Congress is predicting.

Former minister and KPCC spokesman Kimmane Rathnakar has claimed that Yediyurapppa will quit the BJP and rebuild the Karnataka Janata Party (KJP) in the coming days. Yediyurappa had joined the KJP in 2012 after he was forced to resign in 2011 following serious allegations of corruption.

The KJP had managed to cut into the BJP's votes, denting its prospects. Ahead of the Lok Sabha polls in 2014, Yediyurappa rejoined the BJP by merging the KJP with it. The Congress leader told reporters on Monday, "The BJP central leadership is again neglecting Yediyurappa. He is being humiliated again and he is very upset with the central leadership.

Yediyurappa will rejoin the KJP and the Basavaraj Bommai government will collapse soon."

BJP gen secy slams Owaisi over CAA 'threat'

Bengaluru: BJP national general secretary C T Ravi on Tuesday slammed AIMIM leader Asaduddin Owaisi for his 'Shaheen Bagh' threat if the Citizenship Amendment Act is not withdrawn by the Centre. Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, Ravi said if Owaisi behaves like Ajmal Kasab or Osama bin Laden, India has the capability to stop such violence. Ravi termed the AIMIM leader's statement as a threat, which is anti-democratic and against the Constitution. On Sunday, addressing a meeting in Barabanki, UP, Owaisi had stated that the CAA is against the Constitution and if the Centre does not take it back, they will come out on the streets and create another Shaheen Bagh. Ravi compared Owaisi's mindset to that of Pakistan founder Muhammad Ali Jinnah. ENS

Victim hostile, but HC not to quash rape case

Court says even if minor gave consent, it is not considered as such

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DECLINING to quash the proceedings under Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (Pocso) Act against an accused who allegedly raped a minor girl, the Karnataka High Court said that when the accused has committed an offence under Section 376 of IPC against a minor girl, even if the victim has given consent, it is not considered so.

The court said that in a case of heinous offence of rape, even if the parties have settled the dispute, it cannot be accepted and the proceedings cannot be quashed since it will have serious impact on society.

Justice HP Sandesh at the Kalaburagi Bench of the High Court made the observation, dismissing a criminal petition filed by both the accused, Anil, and the victim questioning the proceedings before the trial court in Vijayapura.

The victim turned hostile after an out-of-court settlement. Later, both the accused and the victim moved the high court seeking to quash the proceedings before a trial court, saying that they have married and have a child.

The accused allegedly raped the minor girl in the guise of loving her. After she became pregnant, he allegedly kidnapped her and took her to Kolhapur. The victim's father filed a complaint in 2019.

HC dismisses plea on bank official's termination

The High Court on Tuesday dismissed an appeal filed by a former employee of Union Bank of India against an order passed by a single judge to uphold his termination, for cheating a customer by not depositing money into his SB account. A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum dismissed the appeal filed by K Satishchandra Shetty from Mangaluru, against the order passed by the single judge on January 20, 2021, confirming dismissal imposed by the Disciplinary Authority. The complainant, Mumtaz Yuna Kunhi Monu, used to hand over cash to Shetty at his residence to be credited into his account. Shetty has exploited the trust reposed by Monu by withdrawing money from the savings account, and issuing forged fixed deposit receipts. The Disciplinary Authority of the bank dismissed Shetty in 1999.

ACB raids at BDA offices unearth several scams

ENS @ Bengaluru

FROM crediting compensation to ineligible people by creating bogus documents, to not allotting sites as distributed, the raids conducted by the Anti-Corruption Bureau on the BDA offices have unearthed several scams.

The ACB sleuths, who had raided the BDA headquarters on Friday, continued their search operation even on Tuesday. Besides, four divisional offices were also raided -- North division office in RT Nagar, West Division office in Vijayanagar, East Division office in HSR Layout, and South division office in Banashankari.

ACB officials said the documents seized from the BDAw Land Acquisition Officer's office revealed that bogus documents were created and compensation for land acquired to form BDA Layouts were given to people other than actual land owners. The investigation has also exposed irregularities in distributing allotted sites to applicants. The BDA officials have also caused loss to the exchequer by selling corner sites, which are supposed to be sold only through auction.

Want Jaya's death probed: TN govt to SC

During previous hearing, hospital had contended that their reputation was blighted overnight by the Commission

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

TAMIL NADU government on Tuesday told the Supreme Court that the death of former TN Chief Minister J Jayalalithaa at the Apollo Hospitals in Chennai needs to be inquired into ,"eminently in public interest."

Senior advocate Dushyant Dave, appearing for the State before a Bench of Justices S Abdul Nazeer and Krishna Murari, said, "All the Government wants is an inquiry."

The State's counsel told the court that if it was issuing orders, TN was ready to reconstitute the commission by appointing one more judge, such as retired SC judge Justice R Bhanumathi. He mentioned that if a technical member for the commission had to be appointed, retired Madras HC judge Justice CT Selvam could be considered.

The statement came while responding to a petition filed by the Apollo Hospitals alleging bias on the part of the Government-appointed Justice A Arumughaswamy Commission of Inquiry into the former CM's death.

During the hearing, the Bench questioned the government on why the reports of the Commission are not made public and said, "Why do you appoint Commissions if you do not intend to make their reports public. Is it to wriggle out of the situation?" Objecting to the hospital's demand, however, advocate Dave said, "Until the Government decides there is a need for action, nothing will happen. It is only when action is taken, they (Apollo) can object. However unpalatable the proceedings (before the Commission) may be, it has to be left to the future. The court cannot intervene now. Allow the Commission to complete its inquiry which is eminently in public interest." Senior advocate Ranjit Kumar, who appeared for the Commission, said there are cases in which rumours and allegations cannot be quelled by leaving it in the hands of the State police, and stressed that there is need to have in place a high-powered Commission of Inquiry to go through the facts and afford the parties concerned a free and fair atmosphere to make their statements.

During the previous hearing, the hospital had contended that the reputation of the Apollo Chennai hospital, was blighted overnight by the Commission, which took an "unbelievable tangent" in the case.

Legislature competent to ban online games, K'taka govt tells HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE State Government on Tuesday strongly defended the Karnataka Police (Amendment) Act to prohibit and criminalise playing online games, including games of skill, saying the change is within the legislative competence of the state Legislature.

Advocate-General Prabhuling K Navadagi argued before the division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Krishna S Dixit that whether any game is 'game of skill' or 'game of choice' is a pure question of fact and can only be ascertained after examining the nature of the game.

He submitted that the petitioners have failed to disclose sufficient facts to ascertain the nature of their games. The state does not admit that the games of the petitioners are 'games of skill'. Online games are different from physical/offline ones and constitute a class in themselves. They require third-party intervention for their functioning. Moreover, online games are accessible to an individual at any point of time and on any given day, he argued.

The court was hearing a batch of petitions questioning the ban on online games by the state government. The petitioners claimed that Karnataka Legislature does not have legislative competence under the Constitution to enact the amendment.

The state government contended that the writ petitions were devoid of merit and deserve to be dismissed and that the petitioners have no locus standi to approach the court against the amendment.

The state government alleged that the petitioners have not given any details as to the nature of the activities performed by them. They are deliberately silent as to the nature of games and activities administered on their platform.

Further hearing was adjourned to November 30.

CATEGORISE NOKKUKOOLI AS EXTORTION, SAYS HC

Kochi: EMPHASISING the need to ban the nokkukooli (gawking wages) system in the state, the Kerala High Court has observed that the practice should be treated as an act of extortion. The court on Tuesday directed the state police chief to issue a circular to all police stations and the competent authority under the Kerala Headload Workers Act, asking them to register a case of extortion as well as other applicable offences under the Indian Penal Code (IPC) against workers and trade union leaders who demand nokkukooli. The court instructed the official to issue a circular by December 8 and file a report in this regard. Justice Devan Ramachandran issued the directive while hearing a petition filed by T K Sundaresan of Punalur, Kollam, against trade unions that were demanding nokkukooli for unloading construction material onto his land.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'Puram

AFTER a year-long wait, Anupama S Chandran and her partner S Ajith Kumar on Tuesday met their child -- who was allegedly given away in adoption by the Kerala State Council for Child Welfare (KSCCW) -- at the child-care institute in Kunnukuzhy. The Child Welfare Council(CWC) gave the couple permission after the results of the DNA tests done at the Rajiv Gandhi Centre for Biotechnology (RGCB) turned positive, confirming that they were the biological parents of the child.

Anupama and Ajith arrived at the institution by 4.30pm. The mother was seeing her child for the first time after he was allegedly taken away from her when he was just three days old. The occasion was more memorable for Ajith as he was seeing his child for the first time. After spending about 30 minutes with the child, Anupama said, "I'm happy that I could meet him. At the same time, I am sad as I have to leave him there for the time being. The CWC has informed that they would request for expediting the court procedure."

MSP AT CENTRE STAGE IN THE BHARAT VERSUS INDIA BATTLE

After the surprise announcement by the PM on Gurpurab that the three contentious farm laws would be repealed, it was expected that the agitating farmers on Delhi's borders would celebrate and disperse back to their villages. Celebrate, they did; but the apex farmers' body, the Samyukta Kisan Morcha (SKM), made it clear that they were not going anywhere till their other demands, chiefly a law recognising the Minimum Support Price (MSP) is met. MSP, a mechanism that guarantees a minimum price for 23 farm commodities even if the market price falls, is fixed twice a year. However, there is no law that recognises MSP and farmers are fearful that it can be withdrawn at will. They are also demanding that MSP be calculated on the comprehensive cost of production (C2+50%); and that all products, not just 23 commodities, be covered.

Members of the Supreme Court-appointed committee vetting the farm laws have warned that making an MSP law will harm not only farmers in the long run, but traders and stockists too. They point out that an MSP regime is antithetic to innovation and the growth of scientific farm techniques. It also rebels against an open market and promotes survival economics.

What these academics ignore is that agriculture does not have a level playing field with the other sectors. Shetkari Sanghatana leader Sharad Joshi, pointed out decades ago that our country was effectively two nations—the rural economy of 'Bharat' and the exploitative urban hub called 'India'. By an unequal exchange mechanism, the farmers of 'Bharat' were exploited by the developed, industrial 'India' by layers of pricing and trade controls; this ensured that the farmer did not even get one-fifth of what his produce was sold to the end consumer. Recent studies have shown that high input costs of fertilisers and seeds, and the poor returns have ensured that the average income of farmers has stagnated. A recent report in September pegged the average per capita earnings as low as ₹30 a day. As long as marginal farming, dominated by small, inefficient farm plots, and lack of investment is the lot of the majority of farmers, a protective MSP law is a necessity.

PACKED SCHEDULE A CAUSE FOR CONCERN

Cricket in India may not follow the law of diminishing marginal utility but it does have an effect. Quantity usually leads to a compromise in quality. Take for instance the T20I series between India and New Zealand. It came on the backdrop of the T20 World Cup that got over on Sunday, with New Zealand losing the final against England in Dubai. A day later they were in India for a three-match T20I and two-match Test series, moving from one biosecure bubble to another without a break. The Kiwis peaked during the World Cup and in India, at least during the T20Is, they seemed to go through the rigmarole and looked as jaded as the Men in Blue were when they exited from the T20 World Cup Super 12s. The Indian players had just a week to recover from the rigours of the IPL before the World Cup began.

India needed to prove a point. Under a new leadership—Rohit Sharma as captain and Rahul Dravid as head coach—the team no doubt looked ominous. The T20I series did augur well for Dravid and Rohit. They made a winning start and that too with a set of players custom-made for T20. But this series may not be the true indicator of revival and the team's ability to fend off bigger challenges will occur overseas. This, however, gives a glimpse of the future, especially in terms of workload management of players. The bigger test for Dravid's cricketing acumen would be rotation of players in different formats. As in the past few years, barring 2020 due to Covid, the calendar is packed for India. Two other teams that play as much cricket as India are England and Australia. But they have different teams for Tests and T20Is and the multi-format specialists are encouraged to sit out of games. The packed calendar has also led to a number of top players opting out due to mental fatigue or burnout. Virat Kohli, who gave up his T20 captaincy, was rested for the series, as was Kiwi captain Kane Williamson. It is not humanly possible to give your best close to 200 days a year. Perhaps, it's time for the BCCI to look into the packed schedule and strategise to preserve players—and even look at having different teams for different formats. Like most things in this universe, too much cricket can be injurious as well.

Despite scepticism that the renaming could have been done for political gains, there is hope that the peripheries of India may now have a way out of history's blind spot

ANDAMAN ISLANDS WILL FOREVER HAVE A PIECE OF MANIPUR

PRADIP PHANJOUBAM
Editor of Imphal Review of Arts and Politics

SOUMYADIP SINHA

The recent renaming of Mt Harriet in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands as Mt Manipur certainly seems like the beginning of an effort for a broader and more inclusive Indian history. For outlying regions of the country that have had to push their own unique pasts into oblivion to adopt and adapt to the historical stream considered mainstream, this cannot be more welcome. It is however still unclear if the initiative is for a new understanding of Indian history or merely about rejecting one hegemonic mainstream to adopt another rather than the start of an exploration of Indian history as a salad bowl where each ingredient remains different but contributes to the larger whole.

It is from this vantage point that Manipur is looking at the renaming done in honour of their past ruler Maharaja Kulachandra, his brother from a different queen mother Prince Angousana Senapati and 21 others who were imprisoned there after the 1891 war with the then colonial power, Britain. There are of course doubts raised that the gesture is merely symbolic and has the aim of warming up the BJP's campaign to retain power in the state in the Assembly elections a few months away. Despite this scepticism, a general hope that the peripheries may now have a way out of Indian history's blind spot is unmistakable.

The circumstances that led to the 1891 explosion of violent confrontations that led first to the death of five high-ranking British officers including J W Quinton, chief commissioner of the British Assam province—bifurcated from Bengal in 1874—and later the defeat of Manipur in a full-scale invasion by the colonial forces that followed are known. What would have been no more than an internal skirmish of succession between sibling princes after the death of one of the longest ruling monarchs of the kingdom, Maharaja Chandrakriti, became an external war, one that became a major pivot in Manipur's modern history.

The succession skirmish among the princes was unfortunate, but hardly surprising in a monarchy that followed the primogenitor principle whereby the eldest prince was given the sole right to inherit their father's kingdom, with the rest of his siblings destined to become his subordinates and fade into oblivion from the pages of history regardless of their leadership merits as individuals.

The return of public attention on Manipur's tryst with the infamous Kala Pani prison is leaving Manipur academia embarrassed by the research vacuum on this chapter. This was especially highlighted when people began looking for information on the crucial World War II battles fought on the hills and plains of Manipur and neighbouring Nagaland in the backdrop of the Japan-sponsored Imphal Peace Museum at Maibam Lotpa Ching, Bishnupur, being set up.

From the sketchy records available, there were several from Manipur who were sentenced to death in 1891, including Prince Koireng, popularly known as Bir Tikendrajit, for waging war against the Empress of Britain. Another 23 were deported for life to Kala Pani jail and kept under house arrest at Mt Harriet, much like what the British did to Myanmar's ruler after the Third Anglo-Burmese War in 1885. King Thibaw and Queen Supayalat were deported to India and kept under house arrest for life at Ratnagiri near Goa. This was also the fate of Mughal monarch Bahadur Shah, who was deported for life to Rangoon (Yangon) after the 1857 uprising was suppressed.

M K Angousana and his twin daughters, R K Sanahal Devi and Sanatombi Devi

While every detail of what happened thereafter to King Thibaw and Bahadur Shah are well known and recorded, including in reimaginations of their destiny in bestseller historical novels such as Amitav Ghosh's The Glass Palace in the case of King Thibaw and William Dalrymple's The Last Mughal in the case of Bahadur Shah, the scholarship reality in the case of Maharaja Kulachandra and the 22 others are sketchy.

The case of Burmese King Thibaw and Queen Supayalat is interesting for one more reason. The queen gave birth to twin daughters while in prison in Ratnagiri and thus the two princesses became prisoners at birth. There is almost a sense of deja vu in this for the wife of one of the two exiled royalties from Manipur, Angousana, also gave birth to twin daughters while a prisoner. The twins became prisoners at birth, something not tenable under any civilised law.

From details available from descendants of the exiled royals, the two did not die in the Andamans. The British authorities, after some years, showed leniency and transported them to the mainland at the Hazaribagh jail. It was at this jail that the twins were born. It is said the two girls were fluent in Bihari because their nurse spoke it. One of them unfortunately died during a cholera epidemic in jail. As years advanced and Kulachandra's health deteriorated, the king requested the British for transportation to the holy land of Radha Kunda at Mathura where he wanted to spend his last days. This wish was granted and the two brothers along with their household moved to Radha Kunda. This is where the two breathed their last, Kulachandra much earlier.

After Maharaja Churachand was crowned as king of Manipur in 1907, he visited his uncle Anguosana at Radha Kunda (Kulachandra was no more by then). There, he pleaded for his surviving much younger cousin sister, Angousana's younger daughter Sanatombi, to be allowed to be taken back to Manipur. The father as well as the British authorities consented and the girl thus returned to the homeland she had never seen before.

FDI GAP IN INDIA'S BIG INFRASTRUCTURE DREAMS

LAVU SRI KRISHNA DEVARAYALU
YSRCP MP from Narasaraopet, Andhra Pradesh

The Union Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal recently hailed India's record FDI inflows over the last seven years. While FDI has increased from ₹2.6 lakh crore in FY15 to ₹4.4 lakh crore in FY21, it conceals an important gap—infrastructure constitutes a very small share compared to services and IT sector. In FY21, services and tech together cornered ₹2.4 lakh crore whereas infrastructure and construction received only ₹61,000 crore. This is despite 100% FDI being permitted under the automatic route for sectors like roads, railways, ports and construction.

This situation is worrying, especially at a time when the Union and state governments are embarking on ambitious infrastructure projects to stimulate the economy in the aftermath of Covid-19. The pipeline for projects is large—80,000 kms of roads under Bharatmala, 100% electrification of broad-gauge rail track by 2023, 1,000 kms of metro in cities and 500 GW of renewable energy by 2030. Potentially transformational, these planned infrastructure projects will not take off without sufficient capital funding. The Economic Survey 2018 was prescient in its estimation that India will need ₹450 lakh crore of investment in infrastructure by 2040. Initiatives to marshal the capital have been announced as well—₹6 lakh crore National Monetisation Pipeline over four years and ₹3 lakh crore National Bank for Financing Infrastructure and Development. However, attracting foreign investment is largely absent from the plan to fund infrastructure. Given the tepid response of foreign investors, the government has been forced to look inwards and set an aggressive disinvestment target of ₹1.75 lakh crore for FY22.

There ought to be a closer examination of foreign investors' unwillingness to allocate capital towards infrastructure. In greenfield projects, multiple factors like long gestation periods and delayed completion contribute to a lower rate of return for the foreign investor. Take for instance the statistics ministry's 2020 report finding that 442 infrastructure projects had a collective cost overrun of ₹4 lakh crore and 536 projects with an average time overrun of 44 months.

The situation of the road and highways sector is instructive. The Parliamentary Standing Committee on Transport in its report on the highways ministry's budget for this year noted that 888 road projects of 28,000 kms worth ₹3 lakh crore are delayed. The primary reasons for delays were land acquisition, delayed payments to contractors and poor planning of utilities among others. However, these reasons are not unique to highways and plague most greenfield infrastructure projects.

Eventually, many such delayed projects are classified as nonperforming assets and creditors approach the National Companies Law Tribunal. Here too, they don't find a timely resolution. The secretary to the corporate affairs ministry noted the need for reducing delays in bankruptcy resolution by the tribunal. The Standing Committee on Finance had noted in August that 71% of cases in NCLT have been pending for more than 180 days, which is a deviation from the objective of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code. Further, the recovery rate as of June 2021 was 36%, which is low when compared to the United States' 59%. High pendency, large backlog and low recovery rates increase the risk perception for foreign investors.

> History is replete with examples of infrastructure financing transforming entire economies. After the Great Depression, Roosevelt brought forth the New Deal that created jobs for 90 lakh Americans and built 6 lakh kms of roads, 1 lakh buildings, and 75,000 bridges. India faces a similar context—our GDP contracted by 8%

To boost FDI in greenfield projects, the focus must be on two aspects—reducing risk in executing projects and providing a secure exit mechanism in case of failure. Regarding the latter, the Union government should strengthen the NCLT by disallowing post hoc bids during resolution and bringing more flexible resolution plans for infrastructure. Regarding the former, the PM Gati Shakti Master Plan has the potential to improve execution of infrastructure projects.

The plan seeks to centralise all infrastructure projects of 16 different ministries under one portal to synchronise development. Unified GIS-based planning and centralised monitoring have the potential to energise the speed of infrastructure development. However, this coordination cannot be restricted solely to the Union level since states are integral to aspects like land acquisition and environmental and regulatory approvals. For instance, the Ahmedabad-Mumbai bullet train project has been delayed by three years to 2026 because only 30% land has been acquired in Maharashtra. For the master plan to succeed, the Union government will have to coordinate with the states. Its success will also provide a fillip to attracting FDI in greenfield projects.

Given greenfield projects present a higher risk profile, foreign investors may be more attracted to brownfield projects. Such projects offer significantly lower risk with the primary concerns being operations and management. The National Monetisation Pipeline has been designed to monetise ₹6 lakh crores of brownfield assets and should be leveraged to attract foreign investment. The NMP should also create within itself an Infrastructure Investment Trust (InvIT) pipeline since foreign investors have preferred InvITs as a vehicle. Currently there are 15 registered InvITs, however infrastructure-related PSUs can launch more and aim to raise ₹8 lakh crore till FY27.

History is replete with examples of infrastructure financing transforming entire economies. After the Great Depression, United States President Roosevelt brought forth the New Deal that created jobs for 90 lakh Americans and built 6 lakh kms of roads, 1 lakh buildings and 75,000 bridges. India faces a similar context—our GDP contracted by 8% last year. However, great infrastructure cannot be built solely on domestic capital and the government would do well to attract foreign investment. Ultimately, the 2.5–3.5x multiplier associated with infrastructure spending would bring back demand and rescue lakhs of households that have slipped back into poverty due to the pandemic.

An inspiration

The life of Ramla, a class six dropout who acquired a master's degree and became a high school teacher at the age of 45 in a government-aided institution, is indeed inspirational (Nov 23). This shows that anything is possible with hard work and determination. If there is a will, there is a way.

Jagan's strategic step

It is good that the chief minister of Andhra Pradesh has put the capital plan in abeyance after feeling the heat from the stakeholders and sensing the legal ramifications. Though there are people who may feel that the CM had opened a Pandora's box, it very much looks like he wants to tread a cautious path and come up with something concrete so that there is no resentment from any quarter. This sudden step looks strategic and well-thought-out. It is also quite possible that he might reintroduce the Bill in a better-packaged manner. In the worst-case scenario, he may make this an election issue and leave it to the voters.

Time to disperse

When the government enacted new laws against the wishes of the farmers, they got agitated and started protesting. Now that the prime minister has announced the repeal of those laws, what is the necessity to continue the agitations? The farmers should disperse and not unnecessarily create problems for the public.

Need long-term remedies

This is with reference to the editorial The sickness that plagues urban planning in India (Nov 23). The authorities regularise illegal colonies to gain votes. Natural calamities like floods are annual features and once the sun shines, the governments forget to implement long-term remedies. Ill-planned development

As torrential rains pounded Chennai recently and brought normal life to a standstill, the scenes evoked dreadful memories of the 2015 deluge (Drowning in Chennai: TN's yearly water crisis, Nov 20). There seems to be no improvement since then. Chennai used to be the cause of envy for other states due to the scale of its development and cultural heritage. But the truth is that its development is not sustainable as the rains every year are only exposing the ill-planned growth model of the city.

White ball kings

Tamil Nadu showed they are the undisputed kings of white ball cricket in India by defeating Karnataka in the Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 final. Karnataka, who till the last ball appeared to be the favourites to win, lost due to Shahrukh Khan's six. The big-hitting Shahrukh Khan, Venkatesh Iyer and Sanju Samson should be given more opportunities to play for India.

Release report on farm laws: Ghanwat to CJI

The member of SC-appointed panel on farm laws bats for agri reforms, says legal guarantee for MSP not feasible

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

DAYS after Prime Minister Narendra Modi promised to repeal the contentious agricultural laws, Anil Ghanwat, one of the members of the Supreme Court-appointed panel to study the farm legislations, wrote to Chief Justice of India N V Ramana on Tuesday urging him to release the report in the public domain at the earliest or authorise the committee to do so.

Ghanwat, a senior leader of the Shetkari Sangathan, also said at a media briefing that he would mobilise one lakh farmers to Delhi in the next few months to push for agriculture reforms which he asserted were "badly required". He also said that the protesting farmers' demand to make MSP a legal guarantee and ensure procurement of all agricultural crops at MSP was not feasible.

The three-member panel had submitted its report to the Supreme Court on March 19. But it has not been made public despite Ghanwat having requested the CJI on September 1 to release it saying the "recommendations will pave the way to resolve the ongoing farmers' agitation".

In his letter to the CJI, Ghanwat said that though the panel's report is "no longer relevant" following the government's decision to repeal the farm laws, the recommendations are of great public interest. It is important to ensure that the 'reform impulse' that was reflected in the farm laws is not 'diluted', he asserted. He wrote that the report "can also play an educational role and ease the misapprehensions of many farmers who have, in my opinion, been misguided by some leaders."

Ghanwat requested the CJI to consider directing Centre to develop an exemplary and robust policy process that is followed in developed nations. He suggested setting up a committee to prepare a white paper for making new farm laws.

On the protesting farmers' demand to make MSP a legal guarantee, Ghanwat said, "Even if the government procures all crops, how will they be stored and disposed of?" The solution was to liberate the agriculture sector and give marketing freedom to farmers, he added.

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee interacts with mediapersons outside her residence in New Delhi, Tuesday | PTI

Mamata draws Cong rebels, to meet PM today

RICHA SHARMA @New Delhi

WEST Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee made some minor acquisitions during her latest trip to Delhi, inducting disgruntled elements from the Congress to expand the national footprint of her Trinamool Congress ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections.

Sources said her party is in touch with leaders from across the Opposition spectrum, including members of the grand old party's G23, which had raised a banner of revolt earlier this year over lack of reforms in the Congress. Some of them are expected to switch to the Trinamool in the coming months as it has made its national ambition clear. To help realise the national ambition, election strategist Prashant Kishor has been working with the party on a long-term basis.

"It is part of the party's national expansion plan. It was felt that we need to have a national presence if Mamata is to challenge Modi in the 2024 elections," said a senior Trinamool leader.

Mamata is scheduled to meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday and discuss a slew of issues, including the controversial expansion of BSF's jurisdiction and allocation of central funds for Bengal. With her party MPs meeting home minister Amit Shah on Monday complaining about attacks on its cadre in Tripura, she could flag it, too, during her one-on-one with Modi.

The CM is also expected to meet some Opposition leaders to discuss strategy for the winter session of Parliament and the formation of a united front against the BJP, though there is no word yet about interacting with Congress chief Sonia Gandhi. The Congress is cut up over Mamata providing sanctuary to its rebels.

Those who joined the Trinamool include Congress leader Kirti Azad, former Haryana Congress chief Ashok Tanwar and expelled JD(U) MP Pavan Verma. She also met lyricist Javed Akhtar, her second such meeting with him in as many trips to Delhi.

SC junks plea on site for Vice Prez's residence

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday dismissed a plea challenging the change in user of a plot, where official residence of Vice-President will be built, on Central Vista project site from recreational to residential, saying it's a matter of policy and court can't interfere unless some malafide is shown in the decision.

"In light of the challenge, a detailed affidavit has been filed. It is not the case of the petitioner that the authorities have no power to introduce such change. It is the argument of the Petitioner that since in the past it was a recreational area, it should have been retained like that. This cannot be the scope of judicial review," a bench headed by Justice A M Khanwilkar said, adding that it is the prerogative of the authority concerned.

The top court pointed out that it is not the case of the petitioner that the change was made in a malafide manner.

Appearing for petitioner Rajeev Suri, advocate Shikhil Suri said the changes were not in public interest. He contended that six acres of green area is being taken over for the same. The petitioner's counsel said that in larger public interest, they are seeking to only protect the green and open area.

He said like 'salami slice', a smaller portion of land is taken and then the authority says it is compensating it.

The counsel argued that the affidavit filed by the authority is vague and no green area or open area is compensated in the Central Vista region. "Is it a matter of arithmetic that if 10 metre area is taken, then 10 metre area has to be provided at other place," the bench said "After having seen the affidavit, is it possible for you to say that it was done mischievously, with mala fide?" With PTI inputs

DAC gives nod to production of AK 203 rifles

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

GIVING fire power to the standard weapon profile of armed forces, the Defence Acquisition Council (DAC) has granted permission for the mass production of AK-203 rifles.

The Council has also approved an independent satellite for the Indian Air Force.

The decision comes ahead of Russian President Vladimir Putin's scheduled visit to India beginning from December 5. The important deal had been hanging since 2018.

Sources confirmed that the DAC meeting chaired by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday granted approval for manufacturing 7.5 lakh AK-203 assault rifles for the Indian Army under the 'Make in India' initiative. The contract pegged at over ₹5,000 crore will lead to manufacturing of 6,014, 427 AK-203s for over a 10-year period.

The manufacturing of the Kalashnikov Rifles will be done in Amethi, Uttar Pradesh jointly by the Indo-Russia Rifles Pvt Ltd (IRRPL), which was created as a joint venture between the Ordnance Factories Board (OFB) and the Russia's Rosoboronexport and Concern Kalashnikov. OFB holds 50.5 per cent stake in the concern with the Russian entities having the remaining 49.5 per cent share.

Under the Inter-governmental Agreement (IGA) signed in February 2019, the first 70,000 will include Russian-made components as technology transfers.

In its meeting, the DAC accorded Acceptance of Necessity for capital acquisition proposal of IAF for its modernisation and operational needs amounting to ₹2,236 cr. The procurement proposal was for GSAT-7C Satellite and Ground Hubs for real-time connectivity of Software Defined Radios (SDRs). The project envisages complete design, development and launching of satellite in India.

"Induction of GSAT-7C Satellite and Ground Hubs for SDRs will enhance the ability of armed Forces to communicate beyond Line of Sight among one another in all circumstances in a secure mode," the Defence Ministry said.

TECH HELP

NCB to propose use of drones for checking network, trade of drugs

SANA SHAKIL @New Delhi

THE Narcotics Control Bureau will be suggesting the government to use drones for checking cultivation and manufacture of illegal drugs, this newspaper has learnt.

Incidentally, there has been an increase in drug trafficking, particularly in the Northeast states. Officials in the intelligence and security establishment said smuggling of narcotics is a major revenue source for the Northeast insurgent groups which have of late become active in targeting security forces engaged in anti-smuggling operations.

As many as 173 violent incidents were reported till October 31, an increase of around 31 per cent from last year when insurgents were involved in 132 cases.

NCB chief SN Pradhan conveyed this fact to other stakeholders recently at a meeting of the Narco Coordination Centre (NCORD), which was attended by IB, Central Armed Police Forces, RPF and police forces from Northeast. The Narcotics and Affairs Border, Manipur had mooted the idea to use drones for surveillance.

At present, the government policy does not allow the use of drones for identification and survey of illicit cultivation. Pradhan said the NCB would take up the matter with the MoEF and Department of Science and Technology.

The meeting discussed the flourishing of clandestine Methamphetamine and heroin labs in the Northeast and the involvement of Myanmar nationals in such activities was highlighted as a cause of concern, sources said.

The People's Liberation Army in Manipur, which was behind the November 13 attack on a convoy of Assam Rifles, is also believed to be operating from Myanmar. "The PLA is indulging in extortion and drug trafficking activities and the recent ambush in Manipur shows that drug trafficking is as much a national security threat as terrorism, Naxalism and organised crime. The use of drones to combat illicit drug cultivation will give a big boost to security agencies in handling the overall security situation," a senior government functionary said.

It was also decided that NCORD will push for more forensic labs, special courts in the Northeast for fast tracking cases. "Due to the lack of forensic infrastructure in the region, police and other agencies suffer delays in filing charge sheets, which is leading to less convictions in NDPS cases," said an IG-rank police officer who attended the meeting.

Mass Preamble reading session on Friday, public can join via portal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

PRESIDENT Ram Nath Kovind on Friday will inaugurate an initiative to read out the Preamble of the Constitution in Parliament.

People can take part online in the activity for which certificates will be given to the participants, Parliamentary Affairs Minister Prahlad Joshi said on Tuesday.

The initiative comes at a time when the NDA dispensation is facing increasing agitation on various fronts, including by the farmers' unions against contentious farm laws.

Joshi said the Lok Sabha secretariat will hold a function in the Central Hall to commemorate the Constitution Day on November 26 with wider participation of the people to generate larger awareness about the Constitution as part of the ongoing "Amrut Mahotsav" activities. The government will also organize a quiz contest about the Constitution for the people, he added.

Citizens can take part in reading out the Preamble on a portal in 23 languages, Joshi said, adding that anybody can participate from anywhere and also get certificates. "After the speech of President, all the people can take part in the live Preamble reading out session. People working in all the government departments, students in schools and colleges and institutions will be requested to take part in the live reading session."

The initiative was completely apolitical in nature, he said, adding the states were welcome to hold similar programmes. An online quiz will also be launched by President in which people can answer questions about the Constitution, including fundamental duties.

Oral sex with minor not a major offence: HC

Lucknow: Reducing the jail term of a man convicted of sexually assaulting a 10-year-old boy, the Allahabad High Court observed that 'oral sex' with a minor does not come under the 'aggravated sexual assault' category in the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act. The HC said the crime falls in the 'penetrative sexual assault' category which is punishable under Section 4 of the POCSO Act. In 2016, an FIR had been filed in the Jhansi against a man accusing him of having oral sex with the son of the complainant. The boy had also been threatened with dire consequences. The convict appealed against the 10-year jail term awarded by Jhansi special POCSO judge. The HC reduced the sentence to seven years.

Tewari's book stirs row on UPA's 26/11 terror response

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

CONGRESS leader Manish Tewari triggered a controversy on Tuesday by questioning the erstwhile United Progressive Alliance (UPA) government's response to the 26/11 Mumbai terror attack.

The BJP promptly hit out at the Congress for being insensitive to the concerns of national security at that time.

In his book, '10 Flash Points; 20 Years - National Security Situations that Impacted India', to be released on Dec 2, Tewari said restraint is not a sign of strength but perceived as weakness. "There comes a time when actions must speak louder than words. 26/11 was one such time when it just should have been done. It therefore, is my considered opinion that India should have actioned a kinetic response in the days following India's 9/11," he tweeted excerpts from his book.

After the BJP attacked the Congress, Tewari said he was amused at BJP's reaction on one excerpt from a 304-page book and wondered how it would react to his hard analysis of national security under their government.

The former union minister also mentioned about the Doklam crisis and criticised the Modi government's handling of the episode. "...in July 2018, the Defence and Finance Ministers of the subsequent Modi-led government shelved all the plans of raising a mountain strike corps against China citing financial constraints. Mounting pressure on the LAC leading to the Doklam crisis in 2017 could have been averted, provided the mountain strike corps would have been raised, trained, resourced and efficaciously deployed," he wrote. "Scrapping the mountain strike corps is perhaps the greatest disservice that this government did to India's national security."

But, BJP spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia said that the Congress leader's claims amount to admission of failure of the UPA dispensation. "The summary of the book is that the so called restraint in the face of the 26/11 Mumbai terror attack was essentially signs of weakness. India should have acted firmly... After reading the book, we feel pained like every Indian," he asserted.

SC refuses TMC's plea to postpone poll in Tripura

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday refused to postpone municipal elections in Tripura on account of political violence, saying it was an extreme recourse to do in a democracy.

A bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and Vikram Nath, however, took serious note of the political violence just before the municipal polls in the state, and issued a slew of directions to the state.

"Postponing elections is a matter of last and extreme recourse. We consider that instead of postponing elections, the apprehensions can be redressed by issuing pre-emptory directions to Tripura to ensure that remaining phases of municipal elections take place in fair manner," the judges said.

The top court said the law enforcement agencies must discharge their duties even handed and in nonpartisan manner to obviate the grievance which was raised by the TMC.

The Mamata Banerjee-led party had filed a contempt petition alleging that violence against its party workers is continuing in Tripura and false cases are being filed against them by the ruling BJP government.

The bench also asked the State to give details of security arrangements in place for polling and counting of votes.

During the hearing, the Court asked the State of Tripura whether Central Armed Forces were deployed to deal with the situation.

SP, RLD CHIEFS MEET TO DISCUSS SEAT-SHARING

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

AKHILESH Yadav and Jayant Chaudhary virtually made it official on Tuesday that their parties, the Samajwadi Party and the Rashtriya Lok Dal (RLD), respectively, had sealed the deal to contest the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections in alliance.

The two leaders met in Lucknow, apparently to discuss seat-sharing. They both later tweeted that they were moving together towards change. "Shri Jayant Chaudhary ji ke saath badlav ke ore (With Jayant Chaudhary for change," the SP chief said in his twitter post. The RLD leader, too, posted a photograph of his meeting with Akhilesh and tweeted, "Badhte Kadam."

Speaking to this newspaper over phone, SP spokesperson Manoj Rai confirmed that alliance with RLD was finalised. "The details on seat-sharing would be announced after proper discussion," he said. Sources, meanwhile, said the seat-sharing was also finalised and the announcement would be made soon.

Jayant Singh Chaudhary meets Akhilesh Yadav in Lucknow on Tuesday | PTI

Sources from the RLD said the party expected to contest over 36 seats in western UP as it had a strong base here. The RLD had reportedly demanded 50 seats from the SP. The SP is learnt to have agreed to offer 30-36 seats of its choice in western UP to RLD.

According to sources, the deal between the two parties was earlier stuck over Charthawal assembly seat in Muzaffarnagar district, with Akhilesh adamant to field SP candidate Harendra Malik from there. The sources said the RLD agreed for alliance after the SP dropped its claimed on Charthawal, from which Jayant himself is considering to contest. BJP's Vijay Kumar Kushwaha was elected in 2017 from the seat.

The RLD is believed to have consolidated its electoral base in western UP during the farmers' agitation. "With its strong support among Jats, it can give a tougher fight to the BJP in western UP than the SP," said a political observer.

Theme-based Bharat Gaurav trains soon

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

THE Indian Railways is in the process of finalising theme-based tourist circuit trains through private and state-owned service providers in a move to display the country's rich cultural heritage.

To promote the first-of-its-kind theme-based train services, the railways has dedicated more than 3,000 AC and non-AC coaches of various categories to run around 190 tourist circuit trains to various cultural and heritage sites.

The first Bharat Gaurav train may begin by January next year, railway sources said. As many as 15 private and government-owned service providers have shown interest in Bharat Gaurav trains.

"After freight and passenger segments, the railways is now tapping the tourism segment. We have arranged 3,033 AC and non-AC coaches of various classes to the compositions of 190 theme-based tourist circuit trains," said Union Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw on Tuesday.

Vaishnaw said it was the idea of PM Narendra Modi to run such theme-based tourist circuit trains to translate the people's eagerness to see the cultural heritages and historical places in one go.

The service providers would be free to decide the themes and beautify the interiors and exteriors of coaches to create a memorable experience.

"The Bharat Gaurav trains will have a composition of 14 to 16 coaches, including 2 SLR, offering all amenities and high-class hospitality to the passengers," said the minister.

Kashmir cops arrest 3 for killing of salesman

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

POLICE on Tuesday said the police solved the November 9 killing of a salesman of a Pandit businessman in Srinagar by arresting three accused persons, recovering the pistol and vehicle used in the attack.

A police spokesman said during investigation into killing of Ibrahim Ahmad, the salesman of Pandit businessman Sandeep Mawa, a Special Investigation Team (SIT) formed to probe the killing learnt about the involvement of three accused persons – Aejaz Ahmad Lone, Naseer Ahmad Shah and Showkat Ahmad Dar – all residents of Lelhar, Pulwama in the militancy incident.

"Subsequently, they were arrested and during questioning they confessed," he said.

On November 9 evening, militants had shot dead Ibrahim near the shop at Bohri Kadal area of Srinagar.

According to police spokesman, the preliminary investigation has revealed that the trio were linked with militant outfit LeT (TRF) and they had executed the attack on directions of militant handler from across the border. "The arrested trio was in touch with Pak-based militant handlers for last 4 months," he said.

The spokesman said on disclosure of the arrested trio, weapon of offence (pistol along with 7 rounds) and a grenade were recovered. Besides, an Alto car was also seized on their disclosure

After the killing of the salesman, the Pandit businessman had claimed that he was the target of the attack and his salesman was killed in "mistaken identity" by the militants.

Sandeep had told this newspaper that he was alerted about an imminent threat to his life at 3pm on November 9 and he had immediately left the shop in a vehicle other than the one used by him on a daily basis.

Kin of Srinagar encounter victims demand justice

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Srinagar

A week after Hyderpora encounter in which four persons were killed, the families of two Srinagar residents killed in the November 15 controversial encounter have demanded justice, want removal of Over Ground Worker (OGW) tag from their slain wards and punishment to security men involved in the operation.

According to police, four persons including a Pakistani militant Haider Bhai, his associate Amir Magray (from Ramban), Mudasir Gull and Altaf Ahmed Bhat (both businessmen) were killed. Later, police had buried bodies of the four in Handwara in north Kashmir, about 100 kms from Srinagar.

However, families of Amir, Mudasir and Altaf rejected the police claim and alleged that their wards were killed in a staged encounter. After the public outcry, authorities handed over bodies of Mudasir and Altaf to their families for burial while Amir's father, who is a counter insurgent and had stoned a militant to death in 2005, is pleading to authorities to hand his son's body.

Pregnant woman dies in J'khand after Covid jab

MUKESH RANJAN @Ranchi

A NINE months pregnant woman allegedly died within 24 hours of being administered first dose of COVID-19 vaccine at Shikaripara in Dumka. According to the complaint lodged by her husband, Jatin Murmu, she was forcefully administered the jab while she had gone to withdraw money from Shikaripara on November 17 and died the very next day.

The complaint has been lodged with Shikaripara Block Development Officer (BDO) demanding action against the health workers who administered the jab and compensation for him. Interestingly, the man was given referral slip by the CHC in charge suggesting that the woman was admitted with the complaints of side effects of the first dose of the vaccine.

The husband further added that within hours at around 12 in the midnight, she complained of uneasiness following which she was taken to the nearest Health and Wellness Center at Kolaiwari on the next morning where they referred her to Shikaripara CHC.

"Following her deteriorating health condition, she was referred further to the Phulo Jhano Medical College and Hospital in Dumka at 4pm, where she along with the child in her womb passed away around 7pm," said the husband.

Taking cognizance into the matter, State Health Minister Banna Gupta said, "I have sought a report on under what circumstances the pregnant women was vaccinated forcefully." They cannot get away just by saying that she died as she was anaemic, he said.

Himachal BJP V-P quits as discontent looms in party

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

ALL is not well in the BJP after the party lost the bypolls in the hill state of Himachal Pradesh. Accusing BJP state leaders of having dictatorial attitude, Himachal BJP vice-president and former Rajya Sabha MP Kripal Parmar on Tuesday resigned from the party post and not the party just a day before the crucial core group and state executive meeting. This could further aggravate the simmering discontent among a section of the party leaders who feel they have no say in party decisions.

The BJP legislature party meeting has been scheduled for November 26. While the party core group and state BJP executive meeting to be held here on November 24 and 25 in which the reasons for defeat in the bypolls and corrective steps will be discussed, party should take before the assembly elections which are scheduled for later next year. Parmar who is considered close to national BJP president J P Nadda was denied the ticket for the bypoll from Fatehpur in Kangra.

Sources said, Parmar had tried to raise the 'genuine' issues but nobody's avail.senior party leaders were feeling humiliated in the present set up.

Earlier, Neelam Sarek BJP candidatel from Jubbal-Kotkhai who lost her security deposit in the recent bypoll has also registered her displeasure at the appointment of office bearers to the Mandal unit without her consultation. Former minister and sitting MLA from Jwalamukhi, Ramesh Dhawala, also aired his grievances against dictatorial attitude of senior leadership.

Indore's Patalpani station to be named after tribal hero

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

TEN days after country's first world class railway station in Bhopal was renamed, Madhya Pradesh CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan said on Tuesday that a proposal to rename Indore's Patalpani railway station as Amar Krantikari Tantya Bheel station would be sent to the centre shortly.

Tantya Bheel is one of the most revered tribal warriors/heroes in Madhya Pradesh. The Bheel and Gond tribals are two of the major tribes in MP, where 22 per cent of the population is of tribals. While Rani Kamlapati (after whom Bhopal's Habibganj railway station was renamed recently) was a Gond tribe queen, Tantya Bheel was a Bheel tribe hero.

The CM also announced on Tuesday that a grand programme will be organised at Patalpani in Indore on December 4 to pay homage to the immortal revolutionary Tantya Bheel. Tantya Bheel fought against exploitation and sacrificed himself to free Mother India from the shackles of subjugation.

The chief minister said that Veer Tantya Bheel was hanged in Jabalpur Jail. His last rites were performed at Patalpani near Mhow.

Chhattisgarh reduces VAT on petrol and diesel

The Chhattisgarh state cabinet has decided to reduce the Value Added Tax (VAT) on petrol and diesel by 1 per cent and 2 per cent respectively to offer some relief to the people on fuel price. The state government had been imposing 25 per cent VAT on petrol and diesel and now with the rate cut the cost of petrol will come down by ₹77 paise and of diesel by ₹1.45 paise per litre in the state. The state government claimed that the move will incur an annual loss of around ₹1,000 crore to the state exchequer. While exploring the possibilities to reduce VAT on petrol and diesel the state authorities took into consideration the prices of neighbouring states. On November 3, the Central government had slashed excise duties on petrol and diesel by ₹5 & ₹10 per litre, respectively.

"It's leveraging the next generation technologies to minimise, recycle and reuse byproducts and industrial wastes", said Abhijit Pati, CEO, Balco. Balco has also partnered with the National Highways Authority of India under their Bharatmala Project and VNIT Nagpur for building roads with fly-ash. Fly-ash being a voluminous byproduct of thermal power plants, such an innovation is expected to ensure environmental sustainability in the long run.

IRAN WILL HAVE NUKE IN 5 YRS: ISRAEL

A week before resumption of negotiations, Tel Aviv says it won't be part of any deal

TEHRAN

EVEN as the chief of the UN nuclear watchdog began talks in Tehran on Tuesday, a week before the resumption of negotiations to salvage the Iran nuclear deal, Israel said it won't be bound by any new Iranian agreement with world powers.

The negotiations, due to resume in Vienna next Monday after a five-month pause, will not slow Iran down and the Islamic Republic is at "the most advanced stage" of a nuclear weapons programme, Israeli Prime Minister Naftali Bennett said on Tuesday.

Reuters quoted the Israeli Finance Minister Avigdor Lieberman as saying, "With or without an agreement, Iran will be a nuclear state and have a nuclear weapon within five years, tops."

PM Bennett, who came to power in June, had previously signalled a willingness to a new Iranian nuclear deal, but his Tuesday remarks indicate that he will be less accommodating, Reuters said.

Head of the International Atomic Energy Agency, Rafael Mariano Grossi, (L), and Iranian Foreign Minister Hossein Amirabdollahian meet in Tehran on Tuesday | AP

Meanwhile, Rafael Mariano Grossi of the International Atomic Energy Agency, the UN nuclear watchdog, yet again faces tightrope-style talks with Iranian officials as his inspectors remain unable to access surveillance footage and face greater challenges in trying to monitor Tehran's rapidly growing uranium stockpile.

In the wake of former US President Donald Trump's unilateral withdrawal from Iran's deal, the Islamic Republic now enriches small amounts of uranium up to 60% purity — its highest ever and close to weapons-grade levels of 90%.

Iran confrontation

While Iran maintains its program is peaceful, regional rival Israel has repeatedly warned it won't allow Tehran to build a nuclear weapon and is suspected of launching attacks targeting its program as part of a wider regional shadow war playing across the Mideast in recent years. The US under President Joe Biden, meanwhile, has said it's willing to return to the deal.

All this raises the risk of a wider confrontation with Iran, which has taken a harder tack ahead of the talks under new President Ebrahim Raisi, a protégé of Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei.

On Tuesday, Grossi went to the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran for his third-such visit since February. He spoke with Mohammad Eslami, the new head of the organization. The UN in 2008 sanctioned Eslami for "being engaged in, directly associated with or providing support for Iran's proliferation sensitive nuclear activities or for the development of nuclear weapon delivery systems." Agencies

Cuban woman says Maradona abused and raped her

BUENOS AIRES

A 37-year-old Cuban woman, who had an affair with Diego Maradona as a minor 20 years ago, accused the late Argentine idol and his entourage on Monday of violence and abuse, including rape and holding her against her will. She told the press in Buenos Aires how she met Maradona at 16, when the star, then in his forties, lived in Cuba, where he was in drug treatment.

"I was dazzled, he won me over... But after two months everything started to change", she said, claiming that Maradona, who died from a heart attack a year ago at the age of 60, had pushed her into trying cocaine, in turn making her dependent. The woman, a mother of two kids, said her relationship with Maradona lasted "between four and five years" but that she was subjected to abuse.

She claimed that during a trip to Buenos Aires with Maradona in 2001, she had been held against her will for several weeks in a hotel by Maradona's entourage, banned from going out alone, and forced into a breast augmentation operation.

She also claimed that Maradona had "raped" her on one occasion at their home in Havana and mentioned several other episodes of physical violence. She has not filed a complaint herself but is giving evidence this week in Buenos Aires to an Argentine prosecutor. AFP

China ramps up crackdown on celebrity culture

BEIJING

CHINESE authorities on Tuesday stepped up a crackdown on celebrities and their fandoms as part of President Xi Jinping's push to change social values, media reports said. The new rules could end up banning fan pages that have follower counts in the millions, as fan groups must now be managed by professional celebrity agents.

The number of times celebrities and their works or associated products can come up on web pages will be limited, as per the rules. In addition, websites are restricted from promoting celebrities who have been caught in illegal or unethical behaviour. Reports indicate Chinese authorities are concerned about fans' ability to organise for social action.

The Cyberspace Administration of China (CAC) criticised the "the supremacy of [internet] traffic" and "abnormal aesthetics" for deteriorating "mainstream values" in Chinese society, the Financial Times reported.

China has in recent months moved to bring to heel China's celebrity fan culture, warning broadcasters, websites and performers against the phenomenon. Online fandoms have proliferated in China, creating an "idol economy" that is worth over $22 billion, The Paper reported, as per Reuters.

GoM to discuss new GST rates on Sat

A panel of ministers will discuss rate revision of about 40 items including precious metals

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE panel of state finance ministers looking into GST rate rationalisation will meet on November 27 to discuss the rate revision of about 40 items, as suggested by the fitment committee.

The panel will also examine the proposal of merging GST slabs of 12% and 18% to a single 15% slab. "The Fitment Committee has recommended many changes including the change of slab. It includes 40 items, like gold, precious metals, while there are also withdrawal of some exemptions," a senior official from the finance ministry told TNIE.

The government has formed a GoM in September, headed by Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to propose rationalisation of tax rates, including immediate changes, as well as come up with a roadmap for short and medium-term changes to the GST rate structure, and give the report within two months.

While the merger of slab was ruled out that time by the finance minister, the order had said, "The GoM on rate rationalisation would review the current rate slab structure of GST, including special rates, and recommend rationalisation measures, including a merger of tax rate slabs required for a simpler rate structure in GST,". "As the group will be meeting on Saturday, they will discuss the new slabs and rates and once there is consensus on the rates, it will be again discussed at the next GST council meeting, which is slated before the end of December," the official added.

"This proposal to increase the rate of tax is not in sync with the objective of the GST Council to rationalise the tax rates. GST being an indirect tax, the increase in rate will ultimately be borne by the end consumer and hence, businesses may be apprehensive regarding the possible impact of these changes on the economy," Charanya Lakshmikumaran, Partner Lakshmikumaran & Sridharan Attorney said.

"Further, even in cases where the rates of tax are reduced, businesses will have to pass on the benefit of such reduction to their recipients on account of the anti-profiteering measures under the GST Laws," Lakshmikumaran added.

GST RATE RATIONALISATION

There are about 40 items which are considered for rate hike

Possibility of merging 12% and 18% to one single slab at 15%

The proposed GST on precious metal (gold/silver) will be hiked from 3% to 5%

SpiceJet hopes to revive luck with Boeing 737 MAX planes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

SPICEJET has restarted flying Boeing 737 Max aircrafts with hopes of reviving its fortune in the domestic aviation market.

Hit hard by the Covid-19 pandemic and subsequent restrictions on travel, the no-frills carrier at present is passing through a turbulent time with quarterly losses showing no signs of slowing down.

Add to it, a brewing tariff war led by market leader IndiGo and entry of ultra low-cost carrier Akasa next year pose a strong challenge for SpiceJet.

"The return of the Max will be a game-changer for SpiceJet and allow us to offer a vastly superior flying experience to our passengers," said Ajay Singh, CMD of SpiceJet as the carrier plans to induct 50 Max aircraft, which is said to be 20% more 'fuel efficient', in its fleet by December 2023.

"The return of the Max comes at the perfect time for SpiceJet. With passenger traffic picking up and the government allowing airlines to operate at full capacity, our new planes will allow us to expand our network ahead of the busy travel season and play a major role in our future expansion," he said.

Boeing as well as SpiceJet faced a major setback in March 2019 when aviation regulators around the world, including India, started grounding 737 MAX aircraft following its involvement in two fatal crashes that killed 346 people. It was only after the aerospace company made necessary software rectifications in max planes, it was given a green light by regulators to start flying again.

SpiceJet had on November 17 said it has entered into an agreement with Boeing to settle outstanding claims related to the grounding of 737 Max aircraft and its return to service. Singh said that his company was paid 'both in cash and in kind'. On cutting down its debt and raising fresh funds, Singh said that the airline aims to cut liabilities by as much as $300 million over six months and raise funds from banks and potentially a warrants issue.

MULLS MEDIA BILL, SEEKS FAIR SHARE FROM TECH GIANTS

Indonesian authorities are assessing a draft bill that could compel tech giants like Facebook and Google to negotiate with media firms for fairer revenues, media groups said on Tuesday, a move inspired by a groundbreaking new Australian law. Wenseslaus Manggut, chairman of Indonesia's cyber media association (AMSI), which was involved in drafting the bill, told Reuters the aim was to ensure fairer revenues for outlets that produce core news and "good journalism". Algorithms of big tech companies can have a significant impact on income for digital news media, by determining how prominently an article appears in a Google search or on a Facebook news feed. The draft, seen by Reuters, has yet to go to parliament. It calls for an agency to negotiate between media firms and tech companies, and also requires big tech firms to do more to filter content for hoaxes. The Australian law has since March required Facebook and Alphabet's Google to negotiate with Australian outlets for content that drives traffic and advertising to their websites. About half of Indonesia's digital advertising revenues go to Facebook and Google, according to Amir Suherlan, an advertising expert and managing director of the agency Wavemaker Indonesia.

SINGAPORE

OCT CORE INFLATION UP 1.5%, BIGGEST JUMP IN 3 YEARS

Singapore's key price gauge rose by the fastest pace in nearly three years in October, mainly driven by higher services and food inflation. The core inflation rate – the central bank's favoured price measure – rose to 1.5% in October on a year-on-year basis, compared with 1.2% in the prior month, the Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS) said in a statement. The last time the core inflation rate was higher was in March 2019, when it hit 1.7%. Singapore's headline inflation rose 3.2%, highest since March 2013, beating economists' forecast of 2.8%. Singapore's overall inflation rose to a more than eight-year high in October, helped by higher car prices and housing rents, while core inflation climbed to its highest in nearly three years. Both benchmarks rose faster than economists had predicted. Overall inflation jumped to 3.2% on a year-on-year basis, up from 2.5% in September. It was the highest since March 2013.

THAILAND

TO JOIN TRANS-PACIFIC TRADE PACT MEMBERSHIP TALKS

Thailand aims to join talks on membership of a trans-Pacific free-trade agreement, a government official said on Monday, despite opposition from some politicians and business groups over fears the pact could harm farm and healthcare businesses. The Southeast Asian country has long expressed interest in joining the 11-member Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership (CPTPP), seeing it as a way of boosting the economy, and making sectors such as electronics and agriculture more competitive against rivals such as Vietnam and Malaysia, both CPTPP members. The government had listened to public opinion and recommendations by the lower house and would prepare counter measures for those who could be affected by membership, deputy government spokeswoman Rachada Dhnadirek said in a statement. The CPTPP, also known as TPP11 or TPP-11, is a trade agreement among Australia, Brunei, Canada, Chile, Japan, Malaysia, Mexico, New Zealand, Peru, Singapore, and Vietnam. It evolved from the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP), which never entered into force due to the withdrawal of the United States. The eleven signatories have combined economies representing 13-14% of GDP.

More tax sops for vehicles bought after scrapping old ones: Gadkari

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

UNION Minister Nitin Gadkari on Tuesday said that the government is considering a proposal to provide more tax-related concessions on vehicles that are purchased after scrapping old vehicles under the recently launched National Automobile Scrappage Policy.

"The GST revenue of both the Centre and states will rise due to the scrappage policy...I will discuss with the finance ministry on how to provide more (tax-related) concessions under the new vehicle scrappage policy," said Gadkari while inaugurating Maruti Suzuki Toyotsu, India's first government-approved scrapping and recycling facility for end-of-life vehicles (ELVs).

The facility, located in Noida, has a scrapping capacity of 24,000 units annually and can scrap a single car in 200 minutes.

The minister's statement comes after there were concerns that the current benefits provided by the government to consumers, to scrap their old and vehicles are not very encouraging. Under the current scrappage policy, scrapped vehicle owners will not be charged any registration fee on the purchase of a new vehicle, beside 25% waiver on road tax and a scrap value which will be equivalent to 4-6% of the dismantled vehicle.

Gadkari said they expect 10 to 12% more automotive sales due to the scrappage policy.

IndusInd arm won't allow top execs to join rival

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

IN a curious turn of events, IndusInd Bank on Tuesday claimed that two top executives of its wholly-owned subsidiary Bharat Financial Inclusion Limited (BFIL) have not been relieved by the company yet and that they cannot join Spandana Sphoorty Financial Limited, a competitor of BFIL.

Spandana Sphoorthy, a rural-focused non-banking financial company and a microfinance lender (NBFC-MFI), had on Monday announced that Shalabh Saxena and Ashish Damani would join the company soon as MD & CEO and chief financial officer, respectively.

However, according to an exchange filing on Tuesday by IndusInd Bank, both Saxena who is currently employed with BFIL as MD & CEO and Damani as executive director and chief financial officer have not tendered their resignation from the services of BFIL, and that even if they put in their papers it would require the board's approval to accept their resignation.

Since Spandana is a competitor of Bharat Financial Inclusion, both Saxena and Damani are also prohibited from accepting employment at a competitor of BFIL (such as SSFL), unless approved in writing by the Board of BFIL.

IndusInd Bank has also clarified that certain transactions relating to BFIL are subject matter of an ongoing review and the continued employment of Shalabh Saxena and Ashish Damani at BFIL is critical to the closure of such process.

"Accordingly, they cannot be relieved from the services of BFIL, until completion of the said review," says the statement from IndusInd Bank.

Meanwhile responding to queries sent by TNIE, Spandana said, "The Spandana Board is in continued discussions with all key stakeholders and will update when we have anything additional to report."

Recently, BFIL was in news after whistleblowers alleged that the MFI was indulging in evergreening of loans worth thousands of crores after the outbreak of the Covid-19 pandemic, and that the company was adjusting new loan money with overdues from earlier loans.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

RELIANCE Jio has lost 1.9 crore users and Vodafone Idea lost 10.77 lakh subscribers in September while Bharti Airtel added 2.74 lakh users in September, as per the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI).

"Total wireless subscribers decreased from 1,186.72 million at the end of August-21 to 1,166.02 million at the end of September-21, thereby registering a monthly decline rate of 1.74%," reads the data of TRAI.

Monthly subscriber data compiled by TRAI informs that the overall addition for the telco came in at 2.74 lakh users.

The subscriber base of Airtel stood at 35.44 crore in September as against 35.41 crore users in August.

Vodafone Idea lost 10.77 lakh subscribers, which led its subscriber base to 26.99 crore as on September 2021.

The private access service providers held 89.99% market share of the wireless subscribers whereas BSNL and MTNL, the two PSU access service providers, had a market share of only 10.01%.

As per the TRAI, around 10.10 million subscribers submitted their requests for Mobile Number Portability (MNP) in September.

After Airtel, Voda-Idea hikes its prepaid tariff

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

A day after Airtel hiked its tariff, debt-ridden telecom operator Vodafone Idea Limited (VIL) followed the suit and hiked mobile call and data tariff plans by 20-25%. The move, the company said, will help it to increase its average revenue per user (ARPU) and address the financial stress faced by the industry.

"The new plans will start the process of ARPU improvement and help address financial stress faced by the industry," informed Vodafone Idea in a statement.

The telecom operator is struggling to stay afloat in the market as it is facing stiff competition from Reliance Jio and Airtel. Right now, it has 26.99 crore users as on September 2021. The company expects the hiked tariff would support its initiative to increase ARPU from ₹ 109 reported for the September-ending quarter.

"These tariff plans will allow VIL to continue improving India's Fastest Mobile Network, verified by Ookla®, the global leader in fixed broadband and mobile network testing applications. Vi remains committed to play its role in accelerating the realisation of the Digital India vision of the government," reads the statement.

As per VIL, the basic voice tariff has increased from ₹79 to ₹99 for 28-days plan, the basic data top-up plan has increased from ₹ 48 to ₹58 for the same plan.

The voice-cum-data tariff for 365-days plan has been increased from ₹2,358 to ₹2,899 and for the 56-days data plan, the tariff has increased from ₹351 to ₹ 418.

EMPLOYEES of India's Future Retail have asked the Supreme Court to allow the company to sell its retail assets and rule against Amazon citing risks to 27,000 jobs.

The association of employees of Future Retail has claimed that delay in sale of FRL to Reliance Retail has caused uncertainty in terms of financial health of the company, and increased the chances of bankruptcy of the company, putting at risk livelihood of 27,000 employees.

The association in its Special Leave petition has, therefore, asked the apex court to intervene in the matter and facilitate early resolution of the legal dispute between Future Retail and Amazon.

Amazon and Future Coupon, India's second-largest retailer have been engaged in a legal battle since last year.

Rahul out of NZ Tests, Suryakumar called up

Senior India opener KL Rahul was on Tuesday ruled out of the two-Test series against New Zealand due to a muscle strain in his left thigh. Suryakumar Yadav, who was a part of India's Test squad that travelled to England, has been added to the side. In Rahul's absence, Shubman Gill and Mayank Agarwal will walk out as openers at the Green Park Stadium in the first Test starting Thursday.

As Junior Hockey World Cup gets underway, India look to spot the next crop of players who can make the senior cut ahead of big events

WORLD OF HOPE

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@Bhubaneswar

WHEN Mandeep Mor led India's junior side in the final of the Sultan of Johor Cup in October 2019, the squad was one with promise. After 766 days and a lost generation, the junior side will play their first competitive game in over two years when Vivek Sagar Prasad leads them onto the field against France in the Junior Hockey World Cup on Wednesday.

Thanks to the pandemic, the junior team's programme has been barbecued. In a normal year, they play at least two or three international events. In the last two years though, their only action has been practice matches against the seniors inside the Sports Authority of India campus in Bengaluru. It's important to place on record that most other teams' junior programmes too suffered as a result of the pandemic. In fact, the South Africa junior squad, like India, played in multiple practice matches against the senior setup.

Even amidst all that churn and uncertainty, the management has been able to name a similar-looking squad to the one that played in Malaysia in 2019. Eleven of the 18 that played there will be in action in Bhubaneswar. Nobody needs an introduction to captain Vivek Sagar Prasad, he was in the senior squad that medalled at Tokyo.

But apart from Vivek, not a single player have made their senior debuts. That's why this tournament is going to be one of intrigue for Graham Reid and the senior management. It's almost like the great unknown for them in the sense that they do not know how they will play when the pressure is on them. So trying to predict what will happen is a fool's errand.

INDIA SQUAD

Pawan, Prashant Kumar Chauhan, Abhishek Lakra, Dinachandra Singh Moirangthem, Sanjay (VC), Shardanand Tiwari, Sunil Jojo, Yashdeep Siwach, Vivek Sagar Prasad (C), Ankit Pal, Gurmukh Singh, Maninder Singh, Rabichandra Singh Moirangthem, Vishnu Kant Singh, Araijeet Singh Hundal, Boby Singh Dhami, Manjeet, Rahul Kumar Rajbhar, Sudeep Chirmako, Uttam Singh.

In 2016, that wasn't necessarily the case because five of the 18 had already made debuts for the senior team while a few others were in the core probables list. So it wasn't that much of a surprise when India won that event. That it also supplied a bulk of the Tokyo medallists (eight) re-emphasised the 'Class of 2016'.

Reid 'chief coach'

It's why the upcoming event is going to be important. Hockey India are no under illusions and have even elevated Graham Reid as 'chief coach' of the junior men's side (in 2016, both Harendra Singh and Roelant Oltmans were 'coaches'). If they can find three-four players from this batch to straightaway make that jump, it will help the seniors who have three key events in the next three years: Asian Games (2022), World Cup (2023) and the Olympics (2024).

Especially when a few of the veterans have already made way since the Olympics. The likes of Biren Lakra, Rupinder Pal Singh and SV Sunil have already announced their retirement or taking a break. Suffice to say there will be a few senior spots that could potentially be filled by the players who will be on show over the next two weeks.

That was the focus area during a press conference Reid had with a few scribes a month ago. When asked the kind of players he would be looking at this tournament, he focused on traits like speed and attitude. "Speed is an issue," he said. "You can't slow anymore and compete at the highest level. I think speed and the ability to perform your skills in the heat of battle is something that I always look for in a player. I want a player with a team-first attitude."

But the Australian preferred to be coy when replying to a query on whether he would be looking at specific positions (Rupinder and Biren are defenders so there's two slots there). "I think if you go looking for a specific type of player, often you will never find it. Either they are not there or you don't find it and you will stop looking for it. We are always after players who can play hockey."

That might be stating the bleeding obvious but it's also true. If India are to sustain this newfound love for the game, what happens over the next two weeks will go some way in determining the next chapter following the Tokyo bronze. The juniors do not need to win — titles need not be the only barometer of success at age-group levels — but they need to keep that supply chain going.

After 766 days, there could be some teething trouble but that's the most basic question that this team will aim to answer in Bhubaneswar.

Pujara looks to be fearless in approach

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

IN THE longer format, Cheteshwar Pujara is one of the first players on India's team sheet. His name has been gradually dropping down that list in the last two years. The batter has been scoring here and there, but lack of a three-figure score since January 2019 has put him under bit of pressure, especially when the team has been playing only five specialist batters.

Effectively, he has gone 34 months without a century in red-ball cricket. That is a long period for a player, who is regarded as a Test specialist. That position, however, comes with a huge burden as he does not have the cushioning of other format runs to reduce the criticism.

There have been instances when his intent has been questioned. Case in point: he opened his account in the second Test against England in 35 balls. In his last seven matches, he has been dismissed for a single digit score six times. However, if there has been anything positive, his approach in the last two Tests at Leeds and Oval has shown his willingness to change. At Leeds (189-ball 91), his innings included 15 fours, while his 61 in the Oval had nine. More importantly, it was willingness to score quicker runs, which caught the eye. That was a change of approach, and it will be interesting to see if the 33-year-old will play a similar brand of cricket in the upcoming two-match Test series against New Zealand, starting Thursday in Kanpur.

"When it comes to performing, the mindset was a little different (in those Tests). When it comes to technique, there was no major change. It was just the approach. I was a little fearless, which helps. I feel that you do not need to put too much pressure on yourself and just try and go there and enjoy the game, rather than worry about what is going around. That was my mindset during the England series. So far, the preparations have been good and the experience of playing in Indian conditions is there," said Pujara in a virtual interaction on Tuesday.

Though India are playing at home, it is not going to be easy against the strong Black Caps. He will have to be up against Neil Wagner, one of the best in attacking the batters with his barrage of short balls.

MP beat K'taka in U-25 one-day trophy

BENGALURU: Madhya Pradesh defeated Karnataka by 60 runs in the ongoing BCCI men's under-25 one-day trophy being held in Rajkot. MP opener Chanchal Rathore was in sensational form as the batter scored 140 runs from 136 balls, which included 19 fours and one six to take his team to 317/8 in 50 overs. Venkatesh M scalped three wickets for Karnataka. In reply opener Shivakumar BU scored a ton, but Karnataka were all out for 257 runs in the 47th over.

Bengaluru keen to build on winning start

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Bengaluru FC started their ISL campaign on a positive note, defeating last season's semifinalists NorthEast United FC 4-2 on Saturday. There were plenty of positives from the six-goal contest. New players, including Jayesh Rane and Prince Ibara also delivered with goals while the team also looked good with their pressing.

Though it was just the first game, the Blues impressed. They cannot get carried away with their three points. However, when teams win matches in such style, their confidence level goes up. Similarly, Bengaluru will be eager to play good brand of football against Odisha FC at the Tilak Maidan Stadium in Goa on Wednesday. Bengaluru FC Head Coach Marco Pezzaiuoli is looking for further improvements in their next game, especially in defence and midfield.

"We're eager to build on the winning start, and have to be sharper in defence and in midfield; this is something we have been working on in training. It's a tricky game for us because Odisha FC haven't played yet, and we don't know what to expect from them. I think the important thing is to focus on our own game. Odisha don't know yet where they stand as a team, which gives us a slight advantage. We have points on the board, and we're keen on adding to that," Pezzaiuoli said in a virtual press conference.

It will be interesting to see how Odisha fares this season after finishing at the bottom of the league last edition with just two wins. They have made some changes in their team this season, including new foreigners and a new coach in the form of Kiko Ramirez Gonzalez.

Win for Chennaiyin

It was a game of attrition for Chennaiyin FC, who stunned Hyderabad FC with a 1-0 win at the Bambolim Stadium on Tuesday, despite seemingly being second best for most of the night. With better finishing, Hyderabad could have got some goals on the board and even won it but Chennaiyin admirably soaked up all the pressure and stung them in the second half with Vladimir Koman scoring a 66th minute penalty.

Ramos poised for Paris Saint Germain debut

AFP @Paris

SPANISH great Sergio Ramos could make his long-awaited first appearance for Paris Saint Germain in Wednesday's Champions League group match with Manchester City. The 35-year-old defender has not played for the French side since joining from his long-time club Real Madrid in July due to a recurring problem with a calf muscle. Ramos arrived at PSG with a glittering CV, having won the 2010 World Cup, two European Championships and four Champions League trophies with Real. City top the group on nine points, a point clear of PSG with Belgian outfit Club Brugge four points further adrift.

DROP BITCOIN BID, EL SALVADOR TOLD

The IMF on Monday warned El Salvador against using bitcoin as official tender given the risks associated with the cryptocurrency, a day after the country announced plans for the world's first "Bitcoin City". El Salvador, which has used the US dollar for two decades, became the first country in the world in September to legalize bitcoin as legal tender.

WINTER TOLL IN EUROPE MAY CROSS 7 LAKH, WARNS WHO

A deadly combination of complacency, highly-contagious Delta strain and insufficient vaccination may result in spike, cautions the UN body

COVID

COPENHAGEN: Europe remains 'in the firm grip' of Covid and the death toll on the continent could top 2.2 million this winter if current trends continue, the World Health Organization said on Tuesday.

Some 7,00,000 could die in the coming months, the WHO said, as cases creep up across Europe, prompting some countries to reimpose tough restrictions. The WHO expects "high or extreme stress in intensive care units (ICUs) in 49 out of 53 countries between now and March 1, 2022", AFP reported.

"Cumulative reported deaths are projected to reach over 2.2 million by spring next year," it added, up from the current 1.5 million. Covid-19 is the leading cause of death across Europe and Central Asia, the WHO reported, citing figures from the Institute for Health Metrics and Evaluation.

The rise in Europe was being driven by a combination of the highly-contagious Delta variant, insufficient vaccination coverage and the easing of measures such as mask wearing and physical distancing, it said. According to WHO data, Covid-related deaths increased last week to nearly 4,200 a day, doubling from 2,100 deaths a day at the end of September.

The WHO also said evidence was growing that vaccine-induced protection against infection and mild disease was declining.

"The Covid-19 situation across Europe and Central Asia is very serious. We face a challenging winter ahead," regional director for WHO Europe, Hans Kluge, said in a statement. He called for a "vaccine plus" approach, consisting of vaccinations, social distancing, the use of face masks and hand washing. The WHO said masks reduce Covid incidence by 53 percent according to a recent study, and "over 160,000 deaths could be prevented (by March 1) if universal mask coverage of 95 percent was achieved".

Police patrol the Dutch city of Zwolle on Monday after the issuance of emergency order after three nights of unrest | AFP

Unrest in The Netherlands

Dutch police said on Tuesday they had arrested at least 21 people during a fourth night of unrest over coronavirus measures, although the situation had calmed down. Prime Minister Mark Rutte has slammed the days-long spree of "pure violence" by "idiots", and warned that more Covid restrictions are on the cards. Small groups caused trouble in Zwolle, Groningen and Roosendaal on Monday night though not on the scale of that rocked major cities at the weekend. Police in the northern city of Zwolle arrested 13 people after declaring an emergency situation to prevent what they said were planned riots, local police said on Twitter.

The suspects were detained for offences including possession of fireworks, disobeying police orders and having no ID, broadcaster RTL said.

Eight people were arrested in the southern town of Roosendaal, including three for setting fires, the ANP news agency said. Police also intervened to break up gangs of youths in Groningen on Monday, a day after noisy protests in the northern city, RTL said.

More than 150 people have now been arrested across the country during protests against coronavirus measures that came into force on November 13. The violence started in the port city of Rotterdam on Friday when four people were shot after police opened fire during pitched battles with stone-throwing rioters. Demonstrators took to the streets of The Hague on Saturday, pelting police with fireworks.and setting fire to bicycles.

Rutte said on Monday he understood the "tension in society" as the pandemic drags on but "I will never accept that idiots use pure violence".

Hubble replacement's launch delayed

SPACE

WASHINGTON: The launch of the James Webb Space Telescope has been delayed until December 22 after an accident at its launch facility in French Guiana, NASA said Monday.

Technicians were preparing to attach the $10 billion observatory to a launch vehicle adapter, used to fix it to the upper stage of an Ariane 5 rocket. "A sudden, unplanned release of a clamp band – which secures Webb to the launch vehicle adapter – caused a vibration throughout the observatory," the US space agency said in a blog post, adding that the incident occurred while operations were taking place "under Arianespace overall responsibility."

Arianespace is the French launch company contracted to launch the telescope.

A NASA-led team is now investigating how it happened and testing "to determine with certainty the incident did not damage any components."

Researchers want to use the Webb space telescope to look back in time over 13.5 billion years to see the first stars and galaxies that formed, a few hundred million years after the Big Bang.

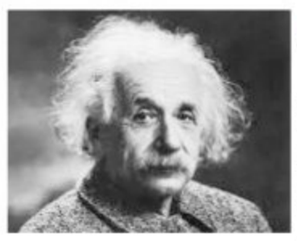
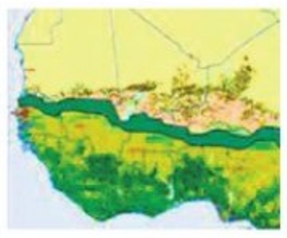
Einstein notes up for auction



HISTORY

Albert Einstein's handwritten notes for the theory of relativity are being auctioned in Paris on Tuesday, expected to fetch millions of euros. "This is without a doubt the most valuable Einstein manuscript ever to come to auction," said Christie's, which is hosting the sale on behalf of the Aguttes auction house. The manuscript contains preparatory work for the physicist's signature achievement, the theory of general relativity, which he published in 1915. Christie's expects it to reach between $2.3 million and 3.4 million. The 54-page document was handwritten in 1913 and 1914 in Zurich by Einstein and his colleague and confidant, Swiss engineer Michele Besso. It is on his theory of general relativity, building on his theory of special relativity.

Great Green Wall in focus



CLIMATE

After years of struggling with insufficient funds, efforts to build Africa's Great Green Wall -- a massive defence line against desertification -- have received a major boost. The initiative concerning 11 countries on the rim of the world's biggest desert was first launched in 2005. Donors this year pledged $19 billion for the scheme, half of which has now been committed, while at the recent COP26 climate summit in Glasgow, US billionaire Jeff Bezos indicated that his foundation would stump up $1 billion to help fight land degradation, particularly in Africa. The idea is to plant diverse trees and shrubs in a corridor about 8,000 km long and 15 km wide across Africa, hugging the southern edge of the Sahara.

Amazon, Apple hit with $225 mn fine

TECH

ROME: Italy's competition watchdog imposed fines totalling over $225 million on Amazon and Apple on Tuesday in the latest action taken against US tech giants in Europe over their business practices.

The watchdog ordered Apple to pay 134.5 million euros and e-commerce firm Amazon 68.7 million euros for infringing EU laws through restrictions which penalised sellers of Apple and Beats products.

US big tech firms have faced a slew of antitrust challenges in Europe -- an approach being watched closely by regulators in Washington, which has pledged to intensify scrutiny of the technology industry.

Both Amazon and Apple said they intended to appeal against the fines. The Italian watchdog said a 2018 deal between the two US companies had "barred official and unofficial resellers of Apple and Beats products from using Amazon.it, allowing the sale of those products in that marketplace only to Amazon and to selected parties in a discriminatory manner".

The aim had been to restrict the number of retailers and limit cross-border sales, it said. The agreement spelled bad news for consumers, because at least 70% of electronics goods bought in Italy were purchased on Amazon. It said it made no sense to suggest Amazon benefitted "by excluding sellers" because its business model "relies on their success". Apple said it believed "we have done nothing wrong".

XPRESS FOCUS

RESTRICTING THE DRAGON IN THE SEA

GIRISH LINGANNA

China is going hammer and tongs against India in the Himalayan region to annex areas into its territory, which it has been claiming as its own since the 1950s. India has replied to it in its own way. Now it is necessary for India to prevent the 'Red Navy' from entering into the Indian ocean, by blocking it in the Indian waters in such a manner that its trade routes are hit and its economy is in doldrums.

China, like it is provoking India in the Himalayas, has a bigger plan in the seas; to encircle India in the Indian Ocean by aid of our enemy nations and building naval bases and spying the Indian Navy.

With designs of becoming a superpower, China has adopted an expansion policy. It is openly exhibiting its bellicose nature to its neighbours. The south China sea tussle is a classic example of this, where the super powers like USA, UK, Australia and India have to step in to help the nations like Vietnam, Philippine, Japan and other countries.

Quite aware of all these, the Indian Navy, which is considered as a formidable force after the USA and Russia, needs to upgrade itself with the required ships and submarines to continue its dominance in the seas and is already at work to meet the eventualities.

In the Himalayas, India showed the world that China is not invincible. Post Galwan valley standoff, China is licking its wounds. India is now gearing up to restrict the dragon in the sea.

Though the Indian Navy has a sizable strength to deal with any aggression, it has to face two front enemies at the sea too with Pakistan on one side and China on the other side.

Though the country has two aircraft carriers and several vessels to keep a tab on both the fronts, the Navy needs more submarines to work effectively considering these two belligerent nations.

China has an ambition to rule this world and it is equipping itself with more warships and arms, with 350 Warships ,50 Conventional Submarines and 10 Nuclear Submarines, it is planning to become the largest Naval power by end of this decade. The plan is to reach the first phase of 450 numbers by end of this decade.

China's Strategy

With an eye to dominate the Indian ocean to feed its aggressively growing economy, China is eying other nation's territories for expanding infrastructure to feed natural resources for its manufacturers. The Malacca strait forms an important route for China to sail towards Africa and Australia. Their biggest hurdle here is the Indian Navy. Therefore, the Chinese Navy's warships and submarines have often been spotted near Andaman islands. China is also helping Pakistan build its naval power by supplying 8 yaun class submarines and 4 multirole frigates at a cost of 7 billion dollars.

Considering this, India needs to be tough in the region. It needs to increase its Naval arsenal, particularly the submarines which remain in water for weeks to check Chinese underwater incursion on war footing.

Politics over Subs

The requirement of submarines has been put forth since the last two decades, but it is long beyond the schedule just because of political reasons.

A cabinet committee on security under Prime Minister Vajpayee approved a 30 year plan to build 24 conventional submarines by 2030 called as P75. However, the successive Government kept it in abeyance until 2007, when the UPA Government under Dr Manmohan Singh approved it again only to put it in abeyance for twelve more years.

In 2019, the Modi government approved the proposal of P75- India.

Conventional & Nuclear

The first submarine of project P75i will be delivered only by 2031. Though the country initially planned for 24 conventional submarines, propelled by diesel, it has now been planned that the Indian Navy will get only nuclear Submarines. The nuclear powered subs are powered by a nuclear reactor. The advantage of these is they need not surface frequently as do conventional diesel submarines. The nuclear reactors give them high speed and constant power required for their voyage and that too at a high speed.

The conventional submarines have to be topped up periodically, which means the boat has to become indiscreet by rising to Periscope depth and extend its slot mast above water to ingest air. This knuckling exposes the submarines to all kinds of threats. However, it has a bit of an advantage. They are cheaper and can manoeuvre well in shallow water.

Though the countries like the USA, UK, France have moved completely to nuclear submarines, a few countries have both conventional submarines and nuclear submarines.

India has 15 conventional submarines and one Ballastic Missile nuclear submarine, INS Arihant (SSBN). The 2nd Ballastic Missile nuclear submarine, INS Arighat, is going to get commissioned only next year. Out of 15 submarines, 12 are really old.

Recently, the navy decided to induct three of the six Scorpene submarines. This batch of 6 submarines will cost about Rs 43,000 Crores. These submarines will have the capability to carry 18 land attack cruise missiles and heavy-duty torpedos.

The country needs both conventional as well as nuclear submarines considering the vast marine turf and enemies on two fronts.

The Hydrography of Arabian sea, which is so restricted because of its underwater gradient makes this region unsuitable for the nuclear submarine which dives deep compared to the conventional nuclear submarine. On the other hand, the Bay of Bengal has a sharp gradient which allows large nuclear submarines to operate freely a couple of kilometres after the harbour. The conventional submarines cannot carry out the long transit submerged to patrol areas like Malacca and Sunda Straits as they need to recharge batteries on route, thus compromising operational secrecy at a place where the Chinese Navy is constantly spying.

Post Kargil

India decided to strengthen its Naval might after the 1999 Kargil war. In 1999, it was planned to build 24 conventional submarines-propelled by electricity and diesel. But now, out of 24 (now reduced to 18), six will be nuclear submarines. Six diesel electric attack submarines will be of Kalavari class, based on scorpene class and will be built at Mazagon Dock Limited (MDL). The third submarine, INS Karanj, was commissioned in March 2021.

The fourth one, Vela, was delivered recently in November 2021. The navy has drawn up plans to install Air Independent Propulsion (AIP) modules on all scorpene class submarines to enhance their endurance.

India had only one Nuclear Attack submarine (SSN), the INS Chakra, which was on a 10 year lease from Russia and has returned back. Another Nuclear Attack Submarine, a replacement from Russia, will arrive on Indian shores by 2025.

P75: The Way Ahead

Though the P75 has been announced, the awarding of contract will take at least two more years as the process is too complex. The two Indian bidders Larsen and Toubro and MDL will select their foreign bidder of the five selected foreign shipyards: Daewoo Shipbuilding (South-Korea), ThyssenKrupp Marine Systems (Germany), Navantia (Spain), Naval Group (France) and JSC ROE (Russia)

The evaluation to select the lowest bidder will require at least another two years and another eight years to roll out the first submarine. Which means the first submarine will be a reality only after 10 years.

India inducted its first submarine 50 years ago. The navy has an in-house design bureau called Submarine Design Group to design submarines, but it has not been put into use so far. India has spent billions of dollars for Transfer of Technology (ToT) everytime it has brought submarines from Germany, Russia and France.ToT means India has the blueprint to build the submarines on their own, but it has not done so due to reasons unknown.

However the hope now rests on P75 to add on more submarines. It is also important that it is the largest project under the 'Make in India' banner.

It is the first project cleared under Strategic Partnership Model – the road map to give major defence projects to the private sectors and break the monopoly of Public sector.

It also cuts our dependence on imports and ensures greater self reliance. In P75 I project, the first five submarines will be 45% indigenous and all six will have to have 60% Indian content.

The Covid 19 pandemic and its attempt to annex Taiwan and overrun Indian territory has made China a villain in the world. Barring a couple of nations, many countries across the world are severing ties with China.

It is an ideal time, India should encash itself upon and build its naval infrastructure to put China in its place.

The Defence Ministry needs to audit P-75- the buy and make order for 6 Scorpene class submarines, which never took off after it was planned in 2004. This is necessary not because the French Navy, which supplied Scorpenes, is also planning to grab P-75I contract, but also the huge amount (nearly 30 percent of the totally Rs 19,000 crores) went to Transfer of technology, which means India should be ready on its own to design and build submarines. If this had happened, the P75I would have had Indian designed submarines.

Fossil found

On November 24, 1974, fossils of one of the oldest known human ancestors, nicknamed Lucy, were discovered in Hadar, Ethiopia

FINDERS, SEEKERS

An australopithecus afarensis specimen, Lucy was found by paleoanthropologist Donald Johanson and his research assistant Tom Gray, after a morning of surveying for fossils

A FEW FIRSTS

Lucy was one of the first hominin fossils to become a household name. Her skeleton was by far the most complete early hominin known (around 40 per cent) with 47 out of 207 bones, including arms, legs, and more

WHAT WE HAVE LEARNED

She walked on two feet and possibly fell off a tree to her death. The discovery of her skeleton made us rethink the rise of big human brains

With only a handful of Bengalureans demanding morning walks these days, the organisers are introducing virtual tours to explore the city

WALKING OUT

SANATH PRASAD

IT has been more than a year since Mansoor Ali, founder of Bengaluru by Foot, an initiative that organises morning walks in the city, has seen a good turnover for his morning walks. The trend of group walks that sees food walks, heritage walks and street walks is seeing a down swing owing to the fear of Covid-19.

What used to be a regular affair has now either reduced to only weekends or on-demand meet-ups. City-based morning walk organisers believe that despite many getting vaccinated, the fear of a possible third wave still looms large, forcing people to go for walks individually. While some organisations hosts the walk physically, some have turned digital, offering virtual tours and taking the online participants through iconic landmarks in the city.

Ali, whose last morning walk was during Deepavali at Bangalore Fort and Chamarajpet, has hardly organised any walks since then. "We used to conduct food walks, heritage walks and environment walks with at least 20 people before Covid hit. Now, we barely get four participants. People are not turning up like before and it is difficult to sustain the essence of morning walks these days."

Bangalore Walks, that organises green heritage walks, military heritage walks, Cubbon Park walk is organising morning walks based only on demand. Botanist Vijay Thiruvady, who is also one of the chief coordinators at Bangalore Walks, says, "Since the pandemic, there is a tendency among the participants to take a walk either in Lalbagh Botanical Garden or Cubbon Park. But many participants don't wear masks. To ensure this, we take requests for morning walks, restricting a participation of only upto 10 members. I wouldn't say there is a down trend in morning walks, but we are just adapting to the new normal," says Thiruvady.

Gully.Tours, a Bengaluru based organisation, has now adopted virtual tours; they also conduct physical private tours. Vinay Parameswarappa, founder, believes that the new normal has forced them to adopt new techniques, therefore giving way for virtual tours. From the Mysore Palace in Mysore to the coffee estates in Kodagu, the organisers are offering real-time virtual guide across the landmark places in different cities to those interested.

As an alternative to physical tours, virtual tours give more scope for participants to take a look at a journey beyond borders in different cities
– Vinay Parameswrappa, founder, Gully.Tours

"Virtual tour gives more scope for participants to take a look at a journey beyond borders in different cities. We had physical tours lined up in 2020 but had to cancel them. Since then, we've gone virtual and are now working on a hybrid model for places that are slowly opening up," he says, adding that corporates prefer virtual tours and others prefer physical tours.

"From 'Death by Dosa tour' at Chickpet to Mysore Palace, we are now conducting only private tours restricted to only families and friends," says Parameswarappa.

Yash Bhandari, a member of Geechugalu, a collective of artists who took charge beautifying the abandoned walls around Malleshwaram through mural paintings, is organising morning walks around the area, taking Bengalureans around the artwork and helping them decode the stories behind the paints.

"We are conducting walks for corporates, school students, college students based on inquiries only. These are not held daily but as and when we get requests," says Bhandari.

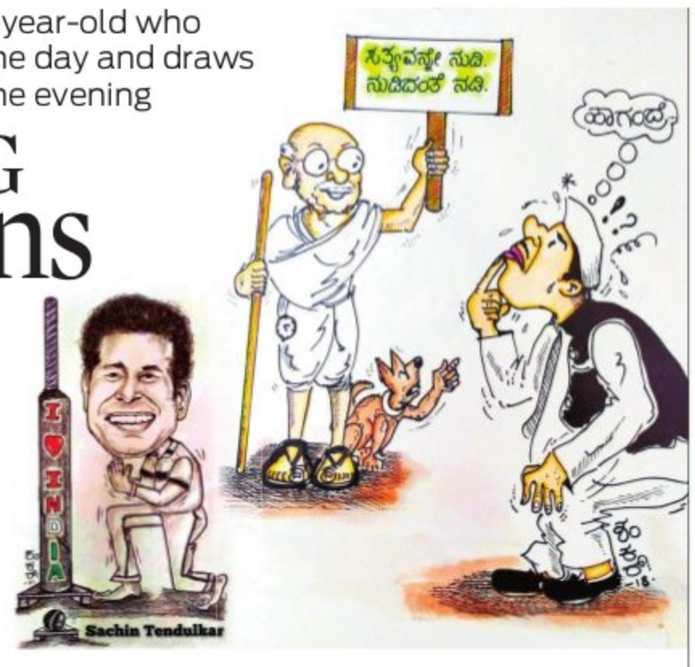
EXPRESS FEATURES

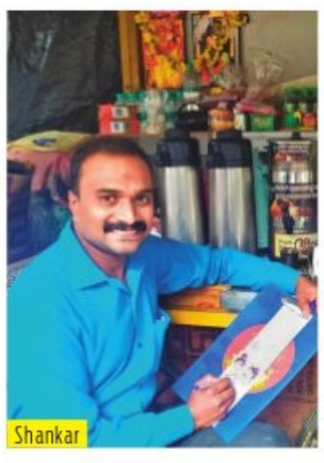
BANASHANKARI is popular for various things but it's also home to cartoonist coffee Shankar. Known not just for his delicious tea, coffee and snacks, the 45-year-old is an avid cartoonist who loves to keep himself busy with a new drawing every day.

Having participated in various exhibitions across the city to showcase some of his works, his ongoing exhibition includes 'Coffeetoons' at Indian Cartoon Gallery on MG Road. This is presented by the Indian Institute of Cartoonists.

Shankar's began his cartoonist journey in the year 2006. Speaking to CE, he says, "I love keeping myself busy drawing when I'm not running my business. It's also refreshing to see something new being presented to my customers. They look forward to it too."

His first cartoon was published in a Kannada magazine called Kandaya Patrike. Since then, he has managed to publish over 6,000 cartoons in various publications. He has also won awards for his cartooning and caricatures and has been felicitated by various Kannada institutions.





Shankar

"Growing up, I was inspired by the artwork in the Malgudi Days series. I also enjoyed Tamil cartoonist Madhan's work. It was really artist SV Murthy who inspired me to pick up the pen and start drawing," he says.

"I love drawing political and observational cartoons. The interesting thing about drawing them is that you predict it however you want and bring out a funnier side to it," says Shankar.

The cartoonist still prefers to draw on paper instead of using digital forms. "The drawing feels incomplete if not done on paper," he laughs.

Shankar starts his day at 4 am and goes on till late at night. "I sleep only two to three hours every day. I spend my whole day working, but my day is incomplete without drawing something. It's almost like I start and end my day cartooning," he says.

RACHEL DAMMALA

WHAT happens when siblings get together? You get the typical teasing, laughing, loving and bonding. But star siblings, Rakul and Aman Preet Singh, did all that and more when they were blessed with the luxury of time during the pandemic. While most of us saw problems and pauses, they mapped solutions. We're talking about the duo's latest venture, Starring You, a platform that aims to bridge the gap between an artiste (in front of and behind the camera) and their dream.

Rakul says it's like LinkedIn, but for the film industry. She explains, "The idea cropped up during the lockdown when the entire world couldn't meet and yet remained connected through digital means. That's when we thought — if everything can happen this way, why shouldn't people be able to have access to the film industry?"

"My brother (Aman) and I saw this gap of accessibility and physical boundaries from both ends: talent and talent hunters, especially with the advent of OTT. That's how we thought we could create a database of aspirants and employers, who could access each other and make a career out of the industry they want to," the actor adds.

Aman says the idea was specifically centred around creating equal opportunities for people from anywhere in the country. The siblings brainstormed on how they can make the idea more exciting, efficient and package it well by associating with big production houses, casting agencies, singers and others.

"This will mean you don't have to be in Hyderabad or Mumbai to audition for your Bollywood or Tollywood debut. To begin with, you can just check out the requirements and the casting details, and keep posting your talent, stay connected, keep checking for regular updates and get spotted," Rakul says, adding writers, directors, cinematographers, makeup artistes, executive producers and line producers can use this.

Asked if she's always wanted to be an entrepreneur, Rakul says, "More than coming from a place of starting a business, I've always loved to have a thinking mind and being able to do more than one thing. With the love, blessings and support from so many people, it comes out of responsibility to do something for them and give back to society."

Aman, on the other hand, knew he wanted to be a businessman. On how it is working with Rakul, he says it's always great working with family: "We've worked together before, we own a chain of gymnasiums, so I know she's amazing to work with. Rakul always comes up with great ideas and new strategies to make things better and easier. Her mind is always working!"

THE RIGHT WAY TO GROW A STARTUP

TURNING PAGES

Trupti Bhandari and Arvind Bhandari

Grow or drown: As start-ups mature, they move towards glory or extinction. Since the market is dynamic, a robust growth is when the rate of customer acquisition exceeds the churn rate. From a financial perspective, the cost of acquisition is less than the lifetime value of a customer, when the business is headed northwards.

In the initial phase, word of mouth becomes very critical for registering early growth. When Hotmail was launched, they offered free mail with a click option at the end of their e-mail, which spun off huge growth at a very early stage of launch. Another useful measure of the viral strength of an idea is viral coefficient. The higher the coefficient, the faster the product spreads as it happens with direct selling in Amway where each consumer is a potential seller, multiplying impact on ground multifold even with limited direct contact with the company.

Marc Andreessen, one of the fathers of 'worldwideweb' (www), called this the phenomenon of product/market fit. When the start-up acquires several consumers that resonate with the product, explosive growth occurs, creating a constantly learning and adaptive organisation. However, one can easily misjudge failures as success and the other way around. To segregate a successful performance from a failed one, the principle of five whys has been proposed by Taiichi Ohno of Toyota to get to the root cause of a problem. An example of such an analysis is as follows:

- Why did the machine stop-overload
- Why was there an overload — bearing not lubricated
- Why was the bearing not lubricated — lubrication pump not working right
- Why was it not pumping sufficiently — shaft of the pump wasworn out
- Why was the shaft worn out
- Nobody had attended to it

Hence, at the end, a people fault or system fault was found. A similar exercise can be undertaken in organisations to nail the right reason and prevent the wrong diagnosis from writing off a project. However, for this, a non-blaming culture has to be evolved in the organisation, with tolerance for mistakes the first time but not subsequently. This way, unpleasant truths can be faced and acted upon.

Most entrepreneurs agree that the one thing that sets a successful start-up apart from a failed one is the personal investment of the founding father. That not only ensures the right investment at the right place but an excruciating level of attention to detail to plug the most minor hole, while spotting the smallest opportunity.

Who are the right people to support start-ups? No one kind of manager fits the various stages but certain archetypes can be established corresponding to the evolution of the start-up.

- For the initial stage when the new product is getting established, you need innovative marketers.
- Once a certain level of stability is acquired, managers who excel in optimisation, delegation, control and execution should be favoured.
- And as operations increase and the bottom line assumes criticality, managers with expertise in outsourcing, automation and cost reduction will be in demand.

Successful entrepreneurs have an uncanny ability to either shift their gears to play different roles at different stages or hire people who exhibit these tendencies. Failing this, good ideas may sink without a trace.

As you grow in brand management, whatever the size of the company, it would be extremely beneficial if you acquire some of the traits of start-up professionals. They are nimble, effective and extremely sharp on consumer focus. In the emerging world, these are qualities you would want to certainly acquire in your life.

PANKAJ DUBEY TO ADAPT BOOK INTO A FILM

Pankaj Dubey is excited as he has not one but two reasons to smile as his book 'One String Attached' is getting a good response and his recent stint as director of the film Maratha Mandir Cinema which is a tribute to Dilwale Dulhania Le Jaayenge. Maratha Mandir Cinema stars Sarika and Swanand Kirkire among others. This was Pankaj's debut as a filmmaker. About One String Attached being adapted as a film in the near future,

Pankaj says, "One String Attached is about that unrequited love in everyone's life which leaves a vacuum somewhere. At some level, I am happy to position this as a love story of the subaltern. It's the love story of a tailor and his quest for his long lost love. I feel grateful to all my readers for the immense love they are showing. Besides, the plot has intrigued some studios and production houses who are keen to adapt this for the big screen." -IANS

A PRACTICAL PLAYBOOK ON SELF-MANAGEMENT

A new workplace demands that you take charge of your anchors. It challenges you to pay attention to the aspects that drive your behaviour, attitudes, perceptions, and emotions. At the same time, recognising the motives, needs, and emotions is imperative for personal leadership. This will help you hone your collaborative instincts, and in embracing diversity and engaging effectively in a professional setting.

"So, first things first, ask yourself how good you have been in leading yourself in the past. And if you think you are self-aware already, my next question to you is — how aware are you of yourself to know if you are self-aware? In simple words, are you self-aware enough, or confused, or right," asks Payal Anand, an Assistant Professor of organisational behaviour at IIM-Kozhikode in Mastering Behaviour - Managing Self and Others. -IANS

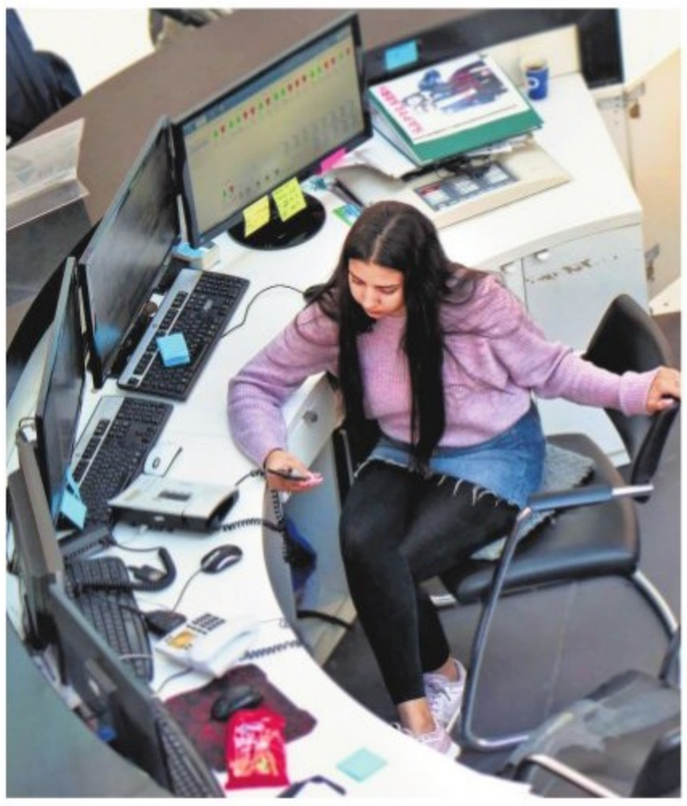
Living in the age of ultra-expertism



IN the early days, to acquire knowledge, one had to forfeit worldly pleasures, and walk into forests. One then had to find a guru, and study under him/her/them for a number of years. Only then was one considered an expert on any subject — even if it was learning how to carve on rocks.

Till the previous decade, one had to resort to the university system. One had to first traverse through the turbulent years of teenage, deal with acne and puberty — and then battle through a Bachelor's degree in the subject. One had to navigate through silent libraries, issuing books and returning them week after week with the discipline of a monk. These three hardworking years were followed by a Master's degree, which came with turbulent relationships, minor flirtations with Communism, finally culminating in a degree that accredited one as some sort of an expert on a subject.

Today, all one needs to do is tap on a few buttons on one's phone. Experts will pop up like unwanted acne, doling out unsolicited advice and opinions on every subject under the sun. For we live in the age of ultra-expertise, where everybody you know around you is an expert on some field or the other — depending on the flavour of the economy.

With the repealing of farm laws, experts in the field have popped up again. On LinkedIn, you'll find MBAs talk about MSPs. On Facebook, you'll find that your childhood friend — who was mostly known as the kid who'd pick his nose in class — extol the socio-economic virtues of farming laws in Venezuela. On Instagram, you'll find teenagers make 15-second reels on 15-year-old issues with the confidence of Yo Yo Honey Singh in a Chandigarh disco.

URBAN BOURBON
Hriday Ranjan
Writer, comedian

And this isn't today's phenomenon. Through the years, I've found my friends to be hidden experts on fields as diverse as military strategy and macroeconomics. When Demonetisation was declared, my friends — who would debate for two hours to split a bar bill — made Raghuram Rajan seem like a drunk backbencher in comparison. When Article 370 was in the news, my friends transformed themselves into geo-political experts with the confidence of Machiavellian leaders.

Ironically, none of them have actually farmed for a single day of their lives or studied politics and macroeconomics.

Their experience with defence purchases is limited to purchasing Deepavali guns and the circular reels that came along with them or purchasing Deepavali bombs and launching rockets into neighbours' homes.

You'll find spiritual gurus discussing politics and economy. And politicians talking about kundalini and finding one's purpose in life. We have all become experts in various fields, and YouTubers have become our source for infinite knowledge.

Aldous Huxley would have been surprised with the ease with which we knock on the doors of perception, eventually knocking them down like Daya in the TV show CID.

For we live in the age of ultra-expertise, where one needs no degree to speak about anything under the sun. All one needs is a degree of patience, to bear all the gyaan flying in one's direction. If Buddha were alive in our generation, we would call him a Boomer with mental issues. And we'd quickly unfollow him on Instagram!

Anurag Kashyap

CE FEATURES

RAJ B Shetty's Garuda Gamana Vrishabha Vahana, which was released on November 19, has been receiving tremendous response from audiences and filmmakers alike. One such response came from acclaimed Bollywood director Anurag Kashyap, who showered praises on GGVV. The director, who got to hear a lot of good things about the film, watched it and caught up with Raj B Shetty over a telephonic conversation.

Sharing some snippets from this conversation, Raj says that Anurag was surprised that the same person had written, directed and acted in the film.

"He felt it was amazing, and brilliantly made. Anurag was astounded to know that the film was shot in 32 days, and assured that he'd soon be putting up his thoughts about the film," shares Raj, who reveals being overwhelmed just listening to Anurag's voice.

Anurag went on to add that GGVV is in a different zone, and the fact that it is personal and powerful even sets it apart from films like Subramaniapuram, Angamaly Diaries, and the Wassepur series. Raj shared that Anurag felt the former delivered a secure performance in the film. "He has invited me over to Mumbai and wants to talk to me about my filmmaking process."

Presented by Rakshit Shetty's Paramvah Studios and distributed by KRG Studios, GGVV also stars Rishab Shetty and Gopalkrishna Deshpande. While the film's music is by Midhun Mukundhan, Praveen Shriyan has handled the cinematography and editing.

'WORKING WITH GANESH HAS BEEN ON MY BUCKET LIST'

Nishvika

Nishvika is happy to have worked with the Golden Star. The actor shares her experiences of working in director Suni's Sakath

A SHARADHAA

NISHVIKA, who is set to star in Ganesh-Suni's Sakath, has only good things to say about her upcoming film, which is set to be released on November 26. Ahead of the release, Nishvika talks about how her upcoming romantic comedy-drama has fulfilled all the expectations she had from the film. "The film is helmed by director Suni, and gave me an opportunity to work with my dream co-star. It was an amazing character that was written well. I was so involved with the film right from the time Suni narrated the story to me. Knowing that it isn't easy to get such a good role in a commercial entertainer, I grabbed the opportunity immediately," explains Nishvika.

The actor plays Nakshatra -- a visually challenged teacher, who doubles up as a motivational speaker. "It was quite a difficult role," admits Nishvika, adding, "My reflexes acted even before I know it, and it was so hard for me to play the role of Nakshatra. I did take time to get the body language right, and even changed the way I speak. Everything about this character was different, and slowly I got used to it."

Nishvika says that Sakath stands out for various reasons, and she was super thrilled with the fact that she was working with the Golden Star, and tells us, "I like Ganesh as an actor, and as a person. Working with him has been on my bucket list, and I am happy that I could tick this wish with Sakath. It is always super fun to be around Ganesh. I like the way he smiles, which is from the heart," she says.

Nishvika, who has watched the film, promises a laughter riot with this film. "Sakath has a good cast, and the audience can relate to one or the other character in the film. Sakath also gives us the workings of a reality show, and highlights a sensitive topic about visually challenged people and how they fall in love, and understand each other," she says.
